LeCesne promoted

Terrel M. LeCesne, principal of Mt. Pleasant Elementary School in Romulus for the last three years, has been named personnel and employee relations manager for the Romulus Community Schools. The promotion for LeCesne represents a jump from middle management to the upper echelons of the Romulus school system. His new position is similar to that of an assistant superintendent of schools. Prior to becoming principal at Mt. Pleasant, LeCesne was principal of Beverly Elementary School in Romulus for five years, principal for the Willow Run Public Schools for two years, and a counselor for two years at the old Romulus Jr. High School. Named acting principal at Mt. Pleasant is Mrs. Audrey Kazanowski, a teacher at the school.

Jaycees cite Willett, Romulus businessman

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

David J. Willett, owner and publisher of The Associated Newspapers, was named as one of the five "Outstanding Young Men of Michigan", an honor bestowed upon him by the Michigan Jaycees.

Also named for the same honor by the Jaycees was Frank D. Marvaso, of Taylor. Since 1964, he has had total management responsibility for Marvaso's Greenhouses in Romulus. Willett, 35, and his wife, Donna, were among the guests of honor at the Michigan Jaycees' annual banquet and awards presentation ceremonies held Saturday night in Troy.

Selected on the basis of "their exceptional achievement or contributions to their chosen field, their community and their fellow man, Willett joined an elite group of honorees that included Marvaso, Mark Clodfelter of Flint, Frederic L. Halbert of Delton and Barry L. Sprink of Ypsilanti.

In accepting the award, Willett told the audience, "that, for me to be selected from so many deserving young men, makes me feel very proud.

"It has been said that we become the sum total of the things that we have experienced," Willett continued. "We experience the agony and the ecstasy of life, and our lives are touched by many people, some gifted and some not. We learn from it all — the good and the bad.

"Friends, acquaintances, and family help mold and shape our thinking and personalities — help us to become the individuals that we are."

Willett publishes six weekly newspapers, including the Wayne Eagle, Westland Eagle, Canton Eagle, The Belleville Enterprise, Romulus Roman and The Inkster Ledger-Star. When he assumed responsibility of the chain, once owned by his father, Wesley, but sold to Panax Corporation, he accentuated local coverage. Today, by involving his papers in the community and allowing people to identify with their own local publications, his rebuilding has proven successful.

He is a member of the First United Methodist Church of Wayne, where he has served on numerous committees and headed the Building Finance Crusade in 1975 and 1978.

Willett is also vice president of the Western Suburban Area Council of Chambers and is president of the Wayne Chamber of Commerce.

Through chamber involvement, he is helping to spearhead the efforts to rebuild and revitalize downtown Wayne.

In 1977, he received special recognition from Gov. William Milliken for his contributions in the field of journalism.

The Willetts have two children, Douglas 12, and Deborah 9.

Marvaso, 35, and his wife, Judy, have three children — Brian, 11, Chad, 7, and Anthony, 3. Starting with four greenhouses on a quarter acre of land, he has expanded to over 100,000 square feet of growing area, the largest greenhouse facility in Michigan.

He is a member of the Michigan Fire Fighters Association, is a nationally registered emergency medical technician, and serves as a civil defense director for Huron Township.

Marvaso heads three volunteer fire departments in Huron and was instrumental in construction of three new fire halls there.

His desire to fill a void in his community in fire protection, EMT services and civil defense were construed as a selfless attitude that, combined with his constant devotion to his fellow man, made him deserving of the Jaycee award.

Officials eye probe of county aging unit

County commissioners are beginning to wonder if ranking officials of the Wayne County Office on Aging Department really have their "hearts" in all of the county...or just where they reside.

Associated Newspapers has learned that the Director of the Office on Aging Department, Dante Divitto, resides in Oakland County and has a full-time job as a social science instructor at Macomb County Community College in addition to holding his directorship with the county.

It was also learned that Frank Rembisz, planning director for the county office on aging department, is a resident of Hamtramck, ran an unsuccessful campaign for city council in that city's past election, and is Hamtramck's former Housing Project Director.

Caroline Lewis, out-county director of the nutrition program for seniors, is a resident of the City of Detroit.

Residency requirements are not mandated by regulations of the County Civil Service Commission. But Western Wayne County Commissioners have, in recent weeks felt acute pangs of neglect by the Office of Aging Department. And some commissioners are less-than-pleased to learn of the department's ties to Detroit area communities.

"I tried to be objective when everyone was screaming about Hamtramck and Highland Park getting all the money for the 'Meals on Wheels' program, said commissioner Kay Beard. "I realize they are bounded by Detroit's limits and all, but I really thought they might be more deserving of the money," she said.

"But now after learning about the whole picture, I'm beginning to wonder if those people can really be objective. I can't help but say that there must be serious investigation into the department. I don't like to run off half-cocked on things, but this looks like a very bad picture developing here."

Beard also said it is natural for a county commissioner to hope that dollars will be channeled their way, but when monies might be heading to certain communities with no hard data substantiating the chosen site as most deserving, "it's time to start screaming."

Recently the county office of aging decided to send nearly $250,000 into the cities of Hamtramck and Highland Park for a state funded pilot project, "meals on wheels" program.

The decision was based primarily on population figures, said county officials, because no sufficient information is currently available on how many seniors are homebound and in need of the home delivered hot meals.

Rembisz said his 20-year residency in Hamtramck had no bearing on the decision to allocate special funds to that city and that his only input into the site-decision was one of demographic and statistical analyzing and recommendations.

His position allows him to seek out and apply for federal and state grants for both the county, and on request, from communities.

He refused to comment on whether he had secured any grants for Hamtramck.

Rembisz said, while he is obligated to adhere to the still standing gag-order imposed on all staff members by Divitto, he could comment on inquiries of a "personal nature only."

William Joyner, Western Wayne County Commissioner representing nine communities, said he has maintained from the first rumblings of unfair play that no substantive evidence was ever provided that the two chosen sites were more appropriate than any Western Wayne County community or cluster of communities.

"If any special interest influence was exerted by any of the officials, specifically I mean Rembisz, to put the money into Hamtramck...then it's wrong and I'll be the first to fight it," said Joyner.

He also said that when the director of the department resides in another county and works full-time in another county, it is "no small wonder that the program is mismanaged."

Divitto for the past year has been on a leave-of-absence from the (Continued on Page A-3)

Says questions should be asked

Resident warns of group seeking child center funds

A Romulus resident informed the Roman that a group of men and women were soliciting funds in exchange for jewelry and candy in the Windcliff Subdivision Sunday night for the purpose of building a "child guidance center".

Although nothing amiss happened, she said the group revealed very little about themselves or the organization they represented until they were questioned at some length.

The woman said she did elicit that the six to seven conservatively dressed adults in their 20s and 30s were soliciting for the Unification Church operated by the Rev. Moon of Korea.

The caller said, that because of the "bad publicity" given to the Rev. Moon and his church and charges of "brain-washing" of new members, she was apprehensive of the group and refused to give $2.50 for candy or jewelry.

The woman, who is working to get a Neighborhood Watch program started in Windcliff, said she was bothered by the fact that few persons actually bother to question solicitors who come to their door.

"People are afraid to ask questions," she said. "I'm calling because I believe people ought to realize they have a right to question these people and to say no to them."

After calling police to find out if the solicitors had obtained a permit to collect funds, she was told police "didn't think" one had been granted.

She said she was informed solicitors have to get city council approval for such a permit and could find no evidence of such action.

She said every member of the group wore identification tags showing the name of the Unification Church, but that no one volunteered the information. Also, she added, funds were solicited on the grounds that the members of the group said they "were against Communism."

The caller said that no Unification Church was located in Romulus and that she failed to locate one by calling Detroit and Ann Arbor.

Clerks want to help on new election laws

Romulus Clerk Leonard J. Folmar will join members of the Wayne County Municipal and Township Clerks Association when it meets with county legislators March 14 in Lansing to discuss proposed new election legislation.

"The purpose of the meeting," explained Folmar, "is to impress upon the Legislature the clerks concern for election legislation and our desire to assist, and work with legislators on such legislation."

He emphasized that city and township clerks would like to feel they were "on the ground floor" in helping in any way they can in drafting new election legislation.

"By working with legislators on election legislation beforehand, our expertise in that area could be best utilized in the interests of our respective constituents to improve election registration and procedures," he said.

Also to be discussed at the Lansing meeting next month, he said, are post card registration and election day registration.

Balloons kick off Catholic Schools Week

Students at St. Aloysius School, 37200 Neville Rd., Romulus, celebrated Catholic Schools Week earlier this month with the release of more than 200 balloons on the school grounds. Each student released a balloon which carried a printed message which read: "This is Catholic Schools Week. If you find my balloon, please let me know." Each message carried the name of the student and the address of the school. Natalie Brougher, a third grade pupil at St. Aloysius, six days later received a letter from a seventh grader in Cleveland, Ohio, stating that he had found her balloon. Other St. Aloysius are hopeful that they too will get an answer to the message contained in their balloons.

Lenten rites are scheduled

Beginning next Wednesday the Community United Methodist Church of Romulus will be holding its Lenten series of midweek dinners and services. Services and dinners will be held on Feb. 28, March 8, 13, 22 and 27 and April 5. There will be no dinner on April 12, Maundy Thursday.

Tom Beaven, associate minister at Birmingham First United Methodist Church will speak on "Visitation Outreach: A Relational Ministry" at the Ash Wednesday (Feb. 28) dinner-service. The meal will be served at 6:30 p.m., followed by the worship service at 7:15 p.m.

The church, until a fire settlement, is meeting in the elementary school at 1165 Olive St.

Which is the best way?

...To itemize or not to itemize

(This is the second in a series of articles prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants offering advice on filing 1978 income tax returns.)

Many thousands of taxpayers with few deductions to claim face the same problem every year—having to decide whether to itemize those deductions or take the standard deduction, now called the zero amount bracket.

The decision hinges primarily on whether, if married and filing joint tax return, your combined deductions exceed $3,200. If you are married, but filing singly, your zero bracket amount is $1,600, and if you are a single individual or unmarried head of household your deductions must exceed $2,200 to make itemizing pay.

Does that mean a taxpayer has to go through the chore of identifying and adding up all deductible expenses in order to reach a conclusion as to whether it's better to take the zero bracket amount? If you are close to the borderline, it probably does, but for most people a rough estimate of their deductions is enough to show whether it would be more profitable to itemize.

Where do you look for possible deductions? For people in all tax brackets the two biggest sources stem from home ownership: interest paid and state and local taxes.

For those in the lower brackets, the next biggest source of deductions come from medical and dental payments, followed by contributions. As income rises, the fact that health maintenance costs are deductible only to the extent that they exceed 3 percent of adjusted gross income (except for one half of medical insurance up to $150) makes health deductions less significant than contributions.

Where else can you look for deductions? Interest and taxes do not exhaust the possible deductions resulting from home ownership. Did a storm, flood, fire or theft or other casualty cause a loss in 1978? Was the loss more than $100 in excess of your insurance coverage? If so, there's probably a deduction there.

(Did you make capital improvements? No tax consequences for this year, but file away your receipts; they could save tax dollars in the future, when you sell.)

Do you have a second home — a vacation cottage, perhaps? Interest and real estate taxes always are deductible, and if you rent out the place you also may be able to take deductions for depreciation, maintenance, advertising, and other rental expenses, depending on the extent of your personal usage and the rental income involved.

The deductions for interest paid are not limited to interest on your mortgage. Time payment purchases of such big-ticket items as a car or a boat also can give important interest deductions. The same for bank loans, charge accounts and credit cards.

Also, don't overlook back taxes you may have paid during the year. If they were federal taxes, the interest is deductible (but not the penalty). If they were state or local taxes, the whole bill usually can be deducted.

In determining your deduction for sales taxes, you have a choice of using the actual amount paid during the year or a table amount provided by the IRS. If you use the tables, count all your income (i.e., municipal bond interest) not just that which must be reported in the tax return. Remember that you can add the actual tax paid on autos, boats, etc. to the table amount.

Don't overlook the deductible expenses the only receipts for which are your paycheck stubs, such as health insurance premiums, union dues or charitable contributions.

In compiling your medical and dental bills don't forget devices to overcome or correct physical deficiencies such as contact lenses, hearing aids or braces; travel costs in going for treatment; medically required trips or alterations to your home or car.

Your job might also bring deductions, such as the cost of work clothes, tools, union dues, trade publications and entertainment of customers. If you run your business out of your home, part of your household maintenance and depreciation costs could be deductible.

If you were lucky, your investments will have increased your tax obligations for the year, but they also may produce deductions. These would include the cost of investment advisory services, subscriptions to financial publications, travel to see your broker, a safe deposit box used to store securities, and in special circumstances, even the costs of travel for the purpose of checking out an investment.

By now you will have a pretty good idea of whether your deductions exceed the zero bracket amounts listed above. If you have above average expenses, there is little doubt you will find it advantageous to itemize. And in case you do make that decision, don't throw away the list of deductions you have just compiled. It will be a big step ahead in the preparation of your tax return.

Carpooling: Now is time

Carpooling is an idea whose time has come — again.

The Carter Administration is warning that the Iranian oil shut-off poses a greater problem to highway users than the 1973 Arab oil embargo.

Energy Secretary James Schlesinger has set an April 1 deadline for some kind of mandatory restrictions on gasoline consumption. Gas stations may be closed Sundays, if voluntary fuel conservation efforts fail to ease the oil pinch by that time.

How can we easily save gasoline? The Highway Users Federation advises that, in addition to eliminating unnecessary trips and obeying the 55-mph speed limit, motorists would do well to resurrect the carpool.

While the 1973 embargo jolted many Americans to "Pool It" on a scale unknown since World War II, the renaissance in ride-sharing began to wane shortly after the lines disappeared from gas stations. Today, the average automobile carries only 1.3 people during rush hour. If this average occupancy figure were increased to 2 commuters per car, some 250,000 barrels of oil would be saved each day.

Riding to and from work alone, the driver of a compact car gets only about 16 miles to the gallon on the average commuting trip, according to the federation. The compact car driver, taking just two co-workers along, could get more than 45 passenger miles per gallon (PMPG). Put four people in a mid-size car and the PMPG jumps to about 52.

Better yet are vans: When loaded with 10 people, the average van is transformed into the most energy-efficient highway commuter vehicle going — 81.6 passenger miles to the gallon.

Organizing car and vanpools is an easy way for individual motorists to help deal with a national problem. If employers and employees undertake the voluntary act now, they can help stave off an unwelcome April Fool's gift from the Department of Energy — mandatory restraints on their gasoline purchases.

"SHOULD I EVER DIP INTO MY CAPITAL?"

In her book, "Life is for Living," Theresa Morse maintains that a widow's capital is not always an intangible commodity, nor need it be sacred. It is intended to be used sensibly for the sake of security but also to help make a better, happier life for yourself.

Ms. Morse points out that, if for all the years before you were widowed, you and your husband managed your finances without your children's advice, there's little reason to begin now.

Feel free to do what is important to YOU, without endangering the bulk of your capital. A trip or a special gift to yourself or others may seem extravagant to your children, but extremely meaningful to YOU.

Project the use of your capital wisely, reserving funds for emergencies, but, as Ms. Morse indicates, your welfare and happiness comes first and "your life is for living."

Advice regarding major finances can be sought from a banker or accountant, both professionals on whose skill you may rely.

Survey shows seniors shun monthly county publication

By CARRIE YOUNG
ANP Staff Writer

Seniors found browsing through the "Senior Citizens Advocate", a Wayne County Office on Aging monthly publication, are few and far between.

And those taking advantage of the informational reading material appear to be seniors already having access to information on senior program offerings, according to a survey conducted by Associated Newspapers of Western Wayne County senior nutrition sites where the publication is delivered.

The survey of the homebound seniors, detached from the mainstream of everyday life and apparently the ones most in need of such a publication showed they are systematically missed.

It should be noted that seniors visited at the food sites were not stampeding the newstands to snatch up an Advocate from the small piles of available.

Quite the contrary, says Virginia Melcher, seniors coordinator for Van Buren Township.

"The ones that do have access to it, I don't think even know about it," Mrs. Melcher said. "It's the county's job to inform them that there's more at the sites than just food and then time to go home . . . but they don't because there's no direction given to the county workers to do anything but dish up the food and leave."

Of the approximate 50 Advocates distributed monthly to Van Buren few actually are read by seniors, Mrs. Melcher said.

And when one does pick up the publication they are disenchanted to find that most information is targeted to Detroit and Detroit area communities, she added.

William Krause, 70, has been attending the hot lunch site since the program's inception. But when asked by Associated Newspapers of his opinion of the Advocate, Krause replied: "What magazine? I've never seen it, have any of you?"

Heads shook. Only one senior of the dozen interviewed had ever seen or read the Advocate, and that senior was a volunteer worker on the local ID program.

The sole reader, Doretha McKelvey, said she finds it interesting to read about "Detroit folks and what's happening to people down there."

In Van Buren 21 homebound seniors have the seniors' magazine delivered to them with their hot meals, but that practice is not adhered to in Sumpter, Westland, Livonia nor Belleville.

And in Wayne and Huron Township no home deliveries are made at all, because of lack of volunteer assistance and inadequate transportation.

The Advocate is not mailed to homes where seniors have excluded themselves from the outside world and are void of knowledge about free-of-charge assistance programs offered both at county and local levels.

Audrey Tucker, senior program director in Wayne, has never seen the Advocate.

"Here I am, and I've never seen one. It's clear that the ones who are locked behind their doors and withdrawn should be the ones getting it . . . but they're not," Mrs. Tucker said.

She said that Wayne currently is in the process of taking a statistical survey of how many homebound seniors reside within its boundaries and where.

Livonia has 8,000 to 10,000 senior citizens, according to Mildred Wheeling, the city senior coordinator. But only 20 Advocates are distributed monthly, and only because Mrs. Wheeling picks them up on her periodic visits to the Area Office on Aging.

In part, Mrs. Wheeling believes that the county's apparent lack of concern for Livonia's seniors can be attributed to Livonia's withdrawal from the county nutrition program some two years ago, after only participating in the program for six months.

"We left, because when you get molded Jell-O, among other things you know something isn't right," said Mrs. Wheeling.

She said that the Office on Aging Director Dante Divitto resented Livonia's pull-out, and thus is "penalizing" the seniors by refusing to allow them to benefit from the county senior's magazine.

Livonia caters its own scratch-food cooking without county assistance.

Divitto refused to disclose any information on the revenue, expenditures and general operations of the Advocate which he publishes.

And Divitto has prohibited anyone on staff from being interviewed by the press.

Associated Newspapers learned that the Advocate never has been audited by the County Board of Auditors since its inception in 1976.

"We have no way of knowing if the money from advertising actually goes back into the program or into someone's pockets," said Guido V. Agrsta, Supervisor and Budget analyst. "But we're sure that those overseeing the program would inform us and request a spot check audit, if they thought something was suspicious looking."

The Advocate, however, is not overseen by any agency or persons other than Divitto, who has absolute control of its operation.

Other than the county fiscal crisis and its effect on manpower, Agrsta said the only other reason for not conducting annual audits on the Advocate is because the paper is financially self-sufficient and doesn't rely on county funding to exist.

But as of March 2, 1978 the Wayne County Board of Commissioners authorized and directed $5,000 to be filtered into the Advocate budget because it was running into a deficit.

According to Glenn Printing, the company which prints the publication, 18,000 copies are printed monthly. About 15,000 copies are distributed, with 3,000 copies at the most to Western Wayne County communities. The remainder is directed to Detroit and Detroit area communities.

Divitto never let out for bids for comparative printing costs, but initially called out for "office estimates" from a half dozen printers, then made "his" choice.

Currently, he makes the phone-call comparisons every three months which has irked area printers who say three months is an unrealistically short time period to maintain a contract.

William Devries, assistant director of county purchasing, said the printing should have been formally advertised and sent out for bids.

"That is wrong, because you can open it up to hanky-panky, if you just call around. You can call around to people you know who'll be high priced and then given it to a friend.

"I'm not saying that's what happened, but the appearance of possible favoritism is there," Devries said.

Stork visits city hall

City rec department has many activities

Recreation activities for youths and senior citizens now available at the Romulus Recreation Department, 36515 Bibbins St., have been announced.

For boys and girls, grades four to seven, after school until 4:30 p.m., free recreational activities will be held one day a week with each elementary school having one day set aside during the week. Students must provide their own transportation for the program which runs through March.

Students, aged 14-17, and who are Romulus residents, will have open recreation after 6 p.m., with specified schools having a certain day of the week allotted to them.

Bowling for pupils, aged nine to 14, will be held at the Romulus Bowling Center from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. on Mondays. Cost will be $2 per week for the six-week program.

Youngsters eight years and older desiring to participate in Karate classes — beginning, intermediate and advanced — can receive free instruction from 6 to 7:30 p.m. on Mondays at South Jr. High School.

Walt Disney movies will be shown free of charge to children five years of age and older on the first Saturday in March at 1 p.m. at Romulus Sr. High School.

Youngsters aged 16 and older can enroll in ceramic classes 6-9 p.m. on Mondays at the Recreation Department for $1.25 plus firing fee.

Ballet lessons for children five to 14 years of age will be offered at no cost from 3:15 to 5:15 p.m. on Mondays (Hale Creek School), Tuesdays (Barth School) and Fridays (Wick School). Program will run through March.

Senior citizens activities also include shop and show trips for the first and third Wednesdays of each month, in addition to many one-day trips and monthly night out jaunts to area restaurants.

Senior citizens activities during the week include: Monday — quilting, bowling, ceramics and square dancing; Tuesday — decoupage and paper tole; Wednesday — leathercraft, bunko and bingo; Thursday — macrame and flower arranging; Friday — sewing, knitting, needlepoint and crocheting.

The senior citizen clubs which meet locally include: Charter Club No. 1 which meets every Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the VFW Hall and which holds a potluck the fourth Tuesday of each month; Oakbrook Sr. Citizens Club which meets every Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at the Oakbrook Clubhouse; and St. Aloysius Sr. Citizens Club which meets every Wednesday at noon in the basement of St. Aloysius School.

For further information on the above activities, call the Recreation Department at 941-0666, extension 67.

Mayor honors Scouts

Star Scout Shannon Rhodes, age 15, is shown receiving a proclamation from Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley celebrating the 69th anniversary of scouting observed recently in the city of Romulus. As part of the festivities scheduled nation-wide was a program to involve select Boy Scouts to serve as "mayors-for-a-day." Shannon is the son of Myron and Patricia Rhodes of Lisa Street in Romulus. He is also a straight "A" student and a member of the high school marching band. (Photo by Jay Young)

Urges hiring holder workers

The hiring of older workers past 40 years of age was urged last week by Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley during the nation-wide observance of "Employ the Older Worker Week."

"I urge all employers in Romulus to consider carefully the skills and other qualifications of men and women aged 40 and over when they hire new workers," the mayor stressed.

"I also ask public officials responsible for job placement and related services to intensify their efforts throughout the year to help older workers find suitable jobs and training," he added.

Oakley called attention to the more than 78 million persons past 40 years of age who live in the United States, 40 million of whom are working or seeking work.

Studies have shown that these middle-aged and older workers are dependable, have solid job skills and abundant experience, and no serious job problems.

Oakley pointed out that despite high job qualifications, once these older workers lose their jobs, they experience great difficulty in finding new ones.

The result of long periods of unemployment for older workers is not only personal hardships, but vast sums of public expenditures for unemployment insurance and other income maintenance programs. Also, lower productivity results in the nation's economy as it is deprived of highly experienced workers.

The state of Michigan and the Federal Government are working to overcome widespread reluctance to hire older workers by making employers aware of the fact that these people are at least as effective as younger people in job performance.

"The objective is to have each worker judged on the basis of individual ability to do a specific job," Oakley explained.

community college, but is scheduled to return in the fall.

Although he was given approval for his secondary place of employment by the former Chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners John Barr, Divitto, so far has not received new approval for this year.

Divitto refused to comment on the matter.

Lewis, working in Hamtramck, was unavailable for comment at press time.

Livonia's county commissioner Mary Dumas said her major complaints, received both by citizens and lodged by herself, is that Divitto has an "off-handed attitude" towards seniors.

She said she favors residency requirements but is probably in the minority in her sentiment.

"I've always felt that if more officials lived in our areas, they'd be more interested in making the program work right, but unfortunately, in the areas where outreach assistance by the county is most important, it is least received," Dumas said.

Livonia withdrew its participation in the county's nutrition program two years ago after protesting dissatisfaction with the service, she said.

Dumas, Joyner and Beard have jointly gone on record as pushing for a special audit of the Office of Aging Department saying they were prompted to do so after learning that the Senior Citizen's Advocate, a monthly magazine published by Divitto, has never been audited by the Board of Auditors and work on it never was formally bid on by outside printers.

Those commissioners are also asking for the 1974 intergovernmental agreement specifying that 70-percent of senior's funding be directed to Detroit to be altered to a 50-50 split reflecting senior migration to out-county. They are asking that Hamtramck and Highland Park both be considered Detroit communities, since the two cities are bounded by the Detroit City limits.

In brief

Society to meet

The Romulus Historical Society will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 21 (today), at the Romulus Public Library. Subject of discussion will be the newly-acquired collection of historical items pertaining to early Romulus.

Hearing to air noise abatement

Noise abatement proposals along sections of Interstate 275 freeway in Western Wayne County between Ford Road in Canton Township and Ecorse Road will be the subject of a public hearing March 15 in Romulus.

According to the Michigan Department of Transportation, the hearing will be held in the Romulus City Hall, 11111 Wayne Road, at 8 p.m.

The department is proposing construction of two noise walls, both on the west side of I-275 — one from the Palmer Road overpass north 2,600 feet and the second from the US-12 (Michigan Avenue) southbound entrance ramp south 3,000 feet.

Brochures describing the proposed project are available for free distribution at the Romulus Municipal Building; or by calling the department's Planning Information Office in Lansing, toll-free at 1-800-292-9576.

Testimony will be taken from interested citizens regarding the social, environmental and economic impact of the proposed project. Written statements and exhibits in place of or addition to verbal statements at the hearing may be submitted for the record up to 15 days following the hearing. They should be submitted to Jack E. Morgan, Manager, Public Involvement Section, Department of Transportation, Lansing 48909.

To further assist in public understanding of the project, department representatives will be present at the hearing site in Romulus one hour prior to the hearing to explain the project and answer questions.

Shells to be topic

"Shells of the World" will be featured at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock on March 4 at 2 p.m.

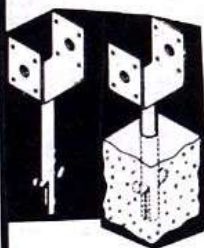

George Gouth, lecturer and historian, will give a slide presentation followed by a display of seashells from all over the world. Tips on collecting and identifying shells will be given.

This program is free, however, vehicle entry permits are required. For additional information contact the nature center at Oakwoods Metropark at 782-1255 (Flat Rock).

STOMACH ULCERS

Have you ever heard someone refer to one of the more exclusive residential areas in your home town as "Ulcer Row?" How often have you heard Madison Avenue referred to as "Ulcer Alley?" Even in the world of entertainment ulcers have nearly become a badge of the profession. Yes, peptic ulcers could nearly be considered a status symbol if it were not for the fact that today, this condition, which was once reserved almost entirely for the hard pressing business man, has begun to take its toll among men and women in every walk of life.

There is much discussion about ulcers, they are even joked about by today's entertainers, but what exactly are peptic ulcers? Where do they come from? What danger signal do they present and most important what can be done about them?

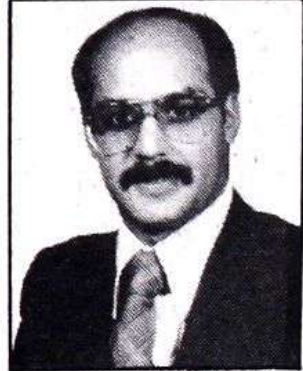

Peptic ulcers are nothing more than open sores on the lining of the stomach or the upper part of the small intestine. In men they are most often in that part of the small intestine known as the duodenum, and therefore they are known as duodenal ulcers. In women the ulcers are almost always in the stomach. There they are known as gastric ulcers. Usually the ulcers occur singularly, but more than one can be present.

Emotional and nervous tension play an increasingly important role in the development of ulcers. This is why recurrence is so frequent unless the basic, underlying cause is located and corrected. It is because of this nervous factor, that chiropractic has been so successful in the care of both gastric and duodenal ulcers. When an interference in the normal supply of the vital nerve force is present the body can become more easily upset, the mucus lining of the stomach can develop an area of lowered resistance, and the highly acid content of the digestive juices can damage the wall of the stomach or intestine and an ulcer can begin to develop.

Pain is by far the most common sign of ulcers. The pain may vary from a mild discomfort to a sharp, severe sometimes penetrating sensation. Quite frequently it is steady aching or gnawing that resembles a constant hunger pain. The pain of peptic ulcers has four distinctive characteristics however, they are 1. The pain generally of the same type and in the same location. 2. It tends to maintain a rhythm of occurrence. 3. It has a tendency to regular period of remission. 4. The pain proves to become chronic. Pain, however, is not the only symptom of ulcers. Constipation is frequent, heartburn, swelling, nausea, vomiting and weight loss may be present in uncomplicated cases. Vomiting of blood occurs in some cases and it may even be the first symptom to appear. Peptic ulcers may perforate, allowing the contents of the stomach or intestine to escape into the abdominal cavity. When this happens symptoms are severe and death can occur.

In most cases of ulcers, chiropractic offers the safest, surest, most effective way to elimination. The science of chiropractic is directed and dedicated to the location and correction of the cause of chronic nerve interference that results in lowered resistance in some part of the body. If ulcers is a result of a change in the supply of the vital nerve power from the brain down into the digestive system, your chiropractor is the man most qualified to locate and correct the cause of this change. In many cases vertebral misalignment with resulting pressures on the spinal cord and spinal nerves is one of the main reasons for the development of peptic ulcers.

ARE YOU AWARE

Ministers are to Please God, Not Us!

GALATIANS 1:18 —NIV TRANS. But even if we or an Angel from Heaven should preach a gospel other than the one we preached to you, let him be eternally condemned! 1:9— As we have already said, So now I say again! If anybody is preaching to you a gospel other than what you accepted, let him be eternally condemned! 1:10—Am I now trying to win approval of men, or of God? Or am I trying to please men? If I were still trying to please men, I would not be a servant of Christ.

(NO OTHER GOSPEL)

GALATIANS 1:6— I am astonished that you are so quickly deserting the one who called you by the grace of Christ and are turning to a different gospel. 1:7— Which is really no gospel at all. Evidently some people are throwing you into confusion and are trying to pervert the gospel of Christ.

These are the words of the apostle Paul writing from Rome about 68 A.D. Paul was amazed that in such a short time, the Church, which he had established in Galatia, was already making changes in the gospel, he had preached to them, or at least the church was allowing others to teach or preach a gospel contrary to the gospel of Christ.

GALATIANS 1:11— I want you to know, brothers, that the gospel I preached is not something that man made up 1:12— I did not receive it from any man, nor was I taught; Rather, I received it by Revelation from Jesus Christ.

"Dear friends, we as lay members are also to please God always before pleasing men, for it is He who shall judge us (not men). So you see it is still the word of God that must prevail in our lives and the word of no one else."

Court Club opens

Last Spring, Sports Illustrated Court Club opened another of their Racquetball facilities, this one in Belleville.

On June 12th, 1978, the local club held its official opening, while preparing to handle the Annual (USRA) Racquetball National's.

Between June 17-24, the City of Belleville was host to nationally famous racquetball pro's such as Shannon Wright, (1978 Women's Singles Champ), Charlie Brumfield, (runner-up, 1978 Men's Singles), and Marty Hogan (1978 Men's Singles Champ). Along with the well known players, total of 800 entrants were on the scene during the National's, making it the largest tournament of this kind to date.

After the National's, there was a break, to allow club employee's time to reorganize. Then came the Junior National's. Held during the month of July young adults of all ages traveled to Belleville anxious to become the next racquetball pro.

During the summer months SICC sponsored an Amateur Ladder Tournament open to all its members throughout the Midwest.

The tournament lasted 3 months

climaxing on October 14th with final competition at the Lemontree Club. This tournament was also a tremendous success with prizes that included digital radios, televisions, grandfather clocks and motor-cycles, totaling $75,000.

Since this spectacular introduction to our community, SICC has continued to expand its programs to various groups interested in racquetball.

Girl's Town, local chapters of the Brownie's and Girl Scouts, and North Junior High School have been guests at the club enjoying the saunas and endless games of racquetball and paddleball.

A sport with few restrictions relative to age group or sex, SICC, racquetball has attributed these assets to its growing popularity. Current membership is 2,200 and growing rapidly. Always trying to increase participation in community activities, SICC now has leagues for local students set up through their schools.

going in the game.

Senior citizens have found their place coming to the club to enjoy the leisurely workouts and relaxing whirlpool baths.

Whatever the situation, Sports Illustrated Court Club feels their main responsibility is to be there to help when its members call.

Lemontree's founder named to top 10 by U.S. Jaycees

Craig Hall, president and chairman of Standard Realty Corporation and Sports Illustrated Court Clubs, has been selected as one of the Ten Outstanding Young Men of America by the United States Jaycees.

This is the 41st year the Jaycees have honored 10 men between the ages of 18 and 36 for exceptional achievements in their fields. Craig Hall's field as quoted by many is "the turnaround king in real estate".

Mr. Hall's notoriety began in 1975 with the acquisition of Knob on the Lake Apartments now known as Lemontree. A 190 acre apartment complex in Van Buren Township that offers its residents a life style — not just an apartment.

Perhaps the ability to offer a life style rather than just a place to live was the dream of Frank Volk, Sr., who originally conceived and developed Knob on the Lake and who wanted a quality development.

The architectural firm of Volk & London helped him with this dream by designing buildings that work well with the surroundings. This was done by careful placement of buildings so as not to detract from the natural beauty of the wooded areas and of course Belleville Lake.

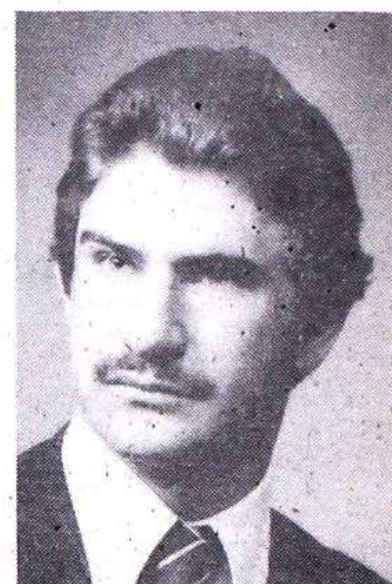

Mr. Hall took advantage of the two biggest attractions at Lemontree in his promotion campaign — a 3200 yard, par 36, 9 hole golf course and 6,000 feet of lake frontage on Belleville Lake.

Most of the buildings have either a view of the lake or golf course which can be enjoyed from balconies that are 22 feet long.

Mr. Hall's expertise in the real estate field took Knob on the Lake from a 58 percent occupancy to 98 percent in less than 17 months.

Can other's do it? According to Craig Hall they can with "desire and willingness to really dedicate yourself to work hard and to follow through, despite lots of pressure and strain". Mr. Hall is even willing to share his formula with us. He is the author of a new book The Real Estate Turnaround published by Prentice-Hall.

He suggests by "taking my formula you can find opportunity in your own local area. If you bought two or three houses several years ago think where you'd be?"

Craig Hall, local real estate expert, and owner of Lemontree was named one of the Ten Outstanding Young Men of America by the United States Jaycees.

Par-haps later!

By RON ERDODY

Lemontree's golf course may be snow-covered and glazed with ice, but the warning sign, pictured above, is a welcome reminder to the avid golfer. In a few short weeks the apartment community's 9-hole course will be busy once again.

Gordie Sullens, Lemontree's resident pro, has been wintering in Florida sharpening his game and teaching techniques for eager clients here in Belleville.

Take heart all you duffers out there.

Get your clubs, spikes and gear shined up — you are just weeks away from another great golfing season at Lemontree.

Paddles

Disco-bar opens

Belleville's unique disco bar-restaurant Paddles, has something to offer everyone. Open Monday through Saturday, the club offers live band entertainment Tuesday through Saturday evenings and a disc-jockey on Monday evenings.

Paddles also hosts many special events.

On Mondays, the club is now the meeting place of Weight Watchers, beginning at 10:30 a.m. Afterwards 'legal' menus are available for those who wish to stay for lunch.

For anyone who would like a racquetball challenge, Paddles offers a "Beat the Pro" evening every Wednesday from 6-9 p.m.

Three points or more scored against the pro earns a prize. Entry fee is just $1, which Paddles contributes to the Lion's Organization.

The decision to donate the money to the Lion's Organization was based on the fact that the most common injury in racquetball is to the eyes. Our representative of the Lion's here in Belleville is Bob Fowler.

If you're looking for a good time, come on down to Paddles. If you're looking for a bargain come between 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. Monday through Friday during our Happy Hour! Two drinks for the price of one!

Want a good time of your own? Paddles is available for private rentals any Sunday! Call 697-1300 after 10 a.m. for more information.

Michigan Bell... people who enjoy serving people.

If you have children at home, would they know who to call in case of a fire, accident or sudden illness? Be sure you have listed near your phone the numbers of your doctor, hospital, poison control, police, fire department and other emergency numbers. Show your children how to find those numbers, how to dial them (if they don't already know), how to call the operator; let them know if 911 can be dialed for fire, medical or police help in your area. Write down your home address near these numbers, too, so your children for your baby-sitter can give it to people who need to find your home in a hurry. Public Prayer: The pros and cons

By GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Features Syndicate

Can prayer save a city? Trouble-plagued Cleveland is going to give it a try.

A prayer breakfast committee has been organized in the city. It plans to sponsor a series of weekly prayer breakfasts at a downtown church to which civic and religious leaders — and ordinary citizens — will be invited.

The idea for Cleveland to try prayer was mine.

"By having prayer breakfasts," I wrote, "we would not be saying that Cleveland can 'pray away' its problems," which (among other things) include raising $14 million to pay off its bad debts. "We would be acknowledging that, without a spiritual shot in the arm — something to dispel the malaise that now encompasses our city — Cleveland cannot restore itself to life."

The business and civic leaders of the community — like Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns football team, and Alton Whitehouse, board chairman of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio — have endorsed the idea.

If that was predictable (for who can be expected to come out publicly against prayer?), not so predictable was the cool response by some of the city's religious leaders to the idea of trying prayer.

Bishop James A. Hickey of the Catholic Diocese of Cleveland responded to my suggestion by saying only that, among other ideas being pondered by the diocese on how to deal with the city's ills, "prayer breakfasts will be considered."

Bishop John Burt of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio, a social activist, has chosen not to comment on the plan at all.

A clergy member of City Council laughed when asked whether prayer could help the city.

Not so surprising was the reaction of Madalyn Murray O'Hair. Contacted in Austin, Tex., by a radio talk-show host in Cleveland, the country's leading exponent of atheism said that anybody who would promote a prayer breakfast to cure a city's problems had to be "an idiot."

A Cleveland columnist was somewhat gentler. He merely called me "foolish."

Basically, the objections of those who oppose the idea of prayer breakfasts fall into three categories:

(1) Politicians will be quick to jump on the prayer-breakfast bandwagon as a chance to "posture" for personal political advantage, knowing that the cameras will be recording their presence at the breakfast (and their prayerful poses) for their constituents to see.

(2) A prayer breakfast amounts to a "prayer spectacular" and violates Jesus' injunction, "When thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut the door, pray ..."

(3) If you get people to pray to God for a solution to their problems, they will "leave it to God" and fail to take any positive action themselves. People who use this objection often feel that prayer is not only a useless exercise but that it actually stands in the way of "practical" solutions.

While there may be some validity to these objections, they ought not to be taken too seriously.

Few people will vote for a man simply because he prays. We vote for those who impress us with what they say and do. At the same time, however, it is reassuring to many people to know that the civic leaders they look up to are themselves looking up to God for strength and guidance.

As for the charge that prayer breakfasts turn prayer into a spectacle when it ought to be a private affair, it need only be said that corporate prayer should not take the place of private prayer.

But it is the rare person who doesn't have his religious convictions deepened and enriched by praying with others who reinforce his faith with their own.

And if there are those — to deal with the third objection — who use prayer to get God to do things for them which they ought to be doing themselves, they are greatly outnumbered by the thousands who, after a few brief moments spent with the Lord and Master of their lives, return to their workaday tasks with new zeal and fortitude.

In this sense, prayer may be the most practical of all the answers to our difficulties.

Energy survey is conducted

Some 400,000 questionnaires will be mailed at random to single-family households throughout the state during the next several months as the Energy Administration-Michigan Department of Commerce kicks off its "Project Conserve", a computerized home energy audit program.

Householders who return the questionnaire will receive a computerized analysis of their home's energy-conserving potential and a chart of the cost and energy savings, which could result if suggested energy-saving steps were taken.

Another 100,000 questionnaires will be distributed through community organizations. Any resident who does not receive the audit form by mail can obtain one by calling 1-800-292-1556 toll-free.

Project Conserve questionnaires will be mailed randomly to residents of all counties in the state except those participating in similar home energy conservation projects being conducted by the Energy Extension Service — Michigan Department of Commerce and the Detroit Edison Company.

Project Conserve will enable residents to analyze the individual characteristics of their home. After the questionnaire is filled out and returned in a postage-paid envelope, a computer will analyze the data using local fuel, labor and material costs and weather conditions.

The participant then receives a "Homeowner Report" which lists energy-saving steps he or she may wish to consider — such as caulking, weatherstripping, storm windows, insulation — and includes estimates of saving in both energy and dollars which would result, if these steps were taken.

In addition, the "Homeowner Report" will list other individualized energy-saving steps. It gives information, for example, on how ventilation and humidity affect fuel costs.

Old Brands Not Missed.

—National Smoker Study

Research shows 14 out of 15 MERIT smokers find total "taste" satisfaction.

Low tar MERIT has proven that it delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but can it satisfy smokers long-term? A nationwide research effort confirms it.

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 MERIT smokers not considering other brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

And in interviews conducted among current high tar smokers:

Confirmed: Majority of high

Kings: 8 mg "tar," 0.6 mg nicotine—
100's: 11 mg "tar," 0.7 mg nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report May '78

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

This ability to satisfy former high tar smokers over a long period of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT is the first real taste alternative for high tar smokers.

Overholt Singers

Area residents will have a chance to hear the Overholt Singers of Battle Creek, Mich., at the Romulus Wesleyan Church, 37300 Goddard Road, Romulus, March 3-5. The troupe, which has traveled extensively throughout the United States and Canada, as well as Europe, presenting Gospel music with a message, will be singing at 7 p.m. March 3-4 and at the 10 a.m. Sunday School and 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. services March 5. According to Pastor Elvis Shook, there is no generation gap in this family as they blend their voices together in beautiful harmony. They furnish their own background music on the piano and guitars.

Litter cleanup planned

Operation Cleansweep, the statewide cleanup to be held April 14 through May 14, is designed to not only clean up the state's litter, but also to educate the public about litter and solid waste problems.

Sponsored by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), Operation Cleansweep was inspired by implementation of the "bottle bill" last December. MUCC spearheaded the petition drive and election campaign that led to overwhelming approval of the bottle bill by Michigan voters in 1976.

In conjunction with Operation Cleansweep, MUCC staff members have prepared an education packet to be distributed to teachers throughout the state. The packet contains material that discusses the pros and cons of conventional solid waste disposal techniques and looks at alternative solutions, such as reuse, recycling and reduction of waste through such methods as Michigan's ban on nonreturnable bottles and cans for beer and soft drinks.

Activities outlined in the education packet are adaptable to classes from kindergarten to 12th grade.

The education kit was made possible in part by donations from the Michigan Education Association and the Michigan Environmental Education Association.

Group orders are encouraged to reduce costs. The kits may be ordered by writing Operation Cleansweep, Box 30235, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

Banotai is carnival king finalist

Belleville resident Frank J. Banotai II is one of 10 Lake Superior State College Winter Carnival king finalists.

Banotai, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Banotai of Elwell Road, Belleville, is representing the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers.

A senior electronics engineering technology major, he is a member of IEEE and a one time member of the Society of Manufacturing Engineers and track team.

He is a 1975 graduate of Belleville High School, where he was active in the Physics Club and JETS Club and a member of the National Honor Society.

The winter carnival, sponsored by the college's student senate includes such events as window painting, snow statue building and war games. The festival king and queen will be selected by students and crowned at the annual Snowball.

Lake Superior State College is located in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

In other college news:

Two Belleville-Romulus residents were awarded juris doctor degrees from the Detroit College of Law in graduation exercises Feb. 6.

Members of the winter Class of 1979 were Gary M. Gabry of Belleville and Stephen J. Trahey of Romulus. of science degree at recent commencement ceremonies at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo. She is the daughter of Charles E. Minthorn of Belleville.

Mrs. Robert Strambaugh of Belleville represents Dickinson College as a special area representative in Dickinson's Alumni admissions program.

Mrs. Stambaugh, is a 1974 graduate of Dickinson College and is one of 138 Dickinson alumni who are helping their alma mater through this novel program.

She has been specially trained to provide high school students with information and answers to questions about the college's admissions, financial aid and academic programs. A pre-Revolutionary War school founded in 1773, Dickinson College is located in Carlisle, Penna.

Joseph Bucci of 144 Service Drive, Van Buren Township, has received his master's degree through the School of Business at DePaul University in Chicago, Ill.

The degree was conferred on Bucci at commencement ceremonies Feb. 4.

Two area residents have been named to the Dean's List for the fall quarter at Northern Michigan University in Marquette.

Maintaining 3.5 grade point averages or better were Carmen Broksea of Belleville Road, Belleville, and Judy Pardeike of Carleton West, New Boston.

VA releases benefit book

The Veterans Administration's best selling book is off the press and available from the U.S. Government Printing Office in Washington to veterans and others interested in benefits for veterans.

This year's 71-page booklet contains all of the latest information on all benefits including pensions, education, compensation, home loans and national cemeteries. There are full listings of all VA facilities throughout the nation complete with addresses and phone numbers.

Many new laws were enacted last year by the Congress, and these changes have been incorporated in the new book.

Every benefit administered by the VA is included in the new publication, complete with rates and amounts of each benefit.

The book is available from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

Price of the book is $1.50. It should be ordered by named: "Federal Benefits for Veterans and Dependents."

Speech group to hold meet

Recovering from laryngectomy surgery (removal of the voice box) isn't easy. The patient must learn not only how to speak again, but must become accustomed to breathing through a small air opening in the neck (stoma) instead of the nose or mouth.

To help laryngectomees, their families and friends cope with the difficulties encountered in everyday encounters, the Michigan Cancer Foundation offers a monthly program, "Concerns of Daily Living."

The March program will feature a representative from the Internal Revenue Service, who will discuss the types of medical expenses that laryngectomees may deduct.

The program will be March 15 in the Guild Room at St. Paul's Cathedral, 4800 Woodward Avenue, Detroit. The public is invited.

The Michigan Cancer Foundation is a Torch Drive-United Way agency and operates the largest speech rehabilitation school for laryngectomees in the United States. Through individual and group instruction, patients are taught to develop new methods of speaking.

For further information, contact the Michigan Cancer Foundation's Speech Pathology Service at 833-0710, ext. 202.

Eclipse to darken skies

One of nature's most spectacular events — a solar eclipse — will be visible from nearly all of North America, including Michigan Monday.

Michigan residents, however, won't get a perfect view of the moon blocking the sun because we are outside the belt of the total eclipse, said Robert Victor, astronomer at Michigan State University's Abrams Planetarium. Observers located within a belt 170 to 195 miles wide, stretching from the Oregon coast to Greenland, will be able to see the total eclipse, he explained.

The next total eclipse visible in North America will not occur until 2017. However, there will be an annular, or "ring" eclipse — a bright ring of intense sunlight surrounding the dark disk of the moon — in 1984.

In Michigan, observers will see the Feb. 26 eclipse begin about 10:40 a.m. and end about 1:15 p.m. Maximum coverage of the sun will occur about 12 noon.

While an eclipse may be a great event to witness, Victor warned people not to look directly at it.

"Looking directly at the sun or the eclipse without suitable

Aids urban renewal

County-adopted programs expand job market

Western Wayne County communities will be able to expand commercial development, create more jobs and facilitate urban renewal through programs adopted by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

That's the word from two area commissioners — Thomas Presnell of Westland and William Joyner of Plymouth. Presnell represents the county's 21st District, while Joyner is commissioner from the 27th District.

During last year the county was awarded more than $10.5 million in state and federal grants, and more than half of that amount will go to the county's Community Block Grant program.

Wayne, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Belleville, and Canton are among the 32 communities which will be cooperating with the county in this program.

Ground was broken in May for a $5 million educational complex in the city of Wayne that features a model farm and multi-purpose learning center. Jointly sponsored by the County Cooperative Extension Service and Intermediate School District, the two agencies received a $4.7 million federal grant to build the complex on a 26-acre site at Van Born between Howe and Venoy roads.

Of the remaining federal money, $245,000 is implementing a computerized career and job information network to link 38 suburban communities with the Michigan Occupational Information System in Lansing.

"There are 50 terminals scattered throughout the County which are hooked up to a computer housed at the Wayne County Intermediate School District in Wayne," the commissioners reported.

Data on more than 350 occupations, including education and skill requirements, job availability in southeastern Michigan, and pay scales is available by keying in questions at one of the terminals. A state grant for $129,000 went toward the establishment of an Economic Development Corporation to stimulate local and industrial commercial development.

In addition, ground was broken in August for a new downtown jail, a project costing $31.7 million and requiring 33 months to build. Voters approved a special five-year, half-mill property levy to finance the project.

Other accomplishments include: — Nearly completing a half-million-dollar county-wide ambulance-to-hospital radio communication system administered by the County EMS program.

— Made available more than $25 million in delinquent property taxes to all county communities by creating a Delinquent Tax Revolving Fund to ease flow problems and simplify budget planning.

— Established a Consumer and Utility Aid Clinic to help settle disputes and maintain legal rights in dealing with utilities.

— Waged a successful protest in Lansing to restore adequate level of services for the senior citizen noontime nutrition program.

Honored for work

Congressman William D. Ford (right), who represents the 15th U.S. Congressional District, recently was presented with a Distinguished Service Award by the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities. Making the presentation was George Rainsford, president of Kalamazoo College and chairman of the association. Ford is chairman of the Postsecondary Education Subcommittee of the House Committee on Education and Labor. He was cited for his outstanding contributions to American education.

Solar eclipse to darken skies

protection could burn your eyes and lead to permanent blindness," Victor emphasized.

He suggests two safe ways to view the eclipse:

— Look through a filter consisting of two layers of black-and-white film, fully exposed and developed to maximum density.

It is not safe to use smoked glass, polarizing filters, photographic filters, color negatives or transparencies, or sunglasses, even in combination, Victor warned.

— Or, build a simple homemade pinhole camera, said the MSU astronomer.

First, make a small hole in a sheet of paper with a sharp pencil point. Next, obtain a white sheet of paper to be used as the screen. Finally, go outside and hold the "screen" in the shadow of the first sheet of paper, about one meter (or a yard) away. Observe the images of the sun on the screen.

A pinhole of two millimeters across seems to work best, said Victor, if the pinhole and "screen" are about a meter apart. Those building the camera may also want to experiment with different size "pinholes," he added.

Editorial opinions

Support urged for Federal Con Con

Not much has changed in the 200 year history of these United States.

In the beginning, our national leaders mistrusted the voice of the people and consequently wrote into the constitution, a provision for the electoral college.

Today, our leaders are lamenting the possibility of a national constitutional convention called by the people who have elected them. Those leaders are now adopting rules which would give them veto power over any convention action.

It is apparent that today's leaders share our founding father's reluctance to rely on the collective wisdom of the people. Even though, on most occasions, the people have displayed far superior judgment than the leaders.

At the heart of the thorny problem which our elected officials may soon face, is the drive by a Washington based group called, National Taxpayers Union (NTU).

NTU hopes to spear-head a national call for a constitutional convention, with the goal of the eventual adoption of an amendment to require the federal government to balance its budget.

It goes without saying that most of our elected officials, as well as the millions of others feeding at the public trough, would be more than just a little upset by the prospects of such an amendment.

While talking of a balanced budget is a favorite political pastime, no serious politician would be willing to vote on cutting his favorite special interest group's appropriations anymore than he would be willing to cut his own wrists. But if NTU is successful, that may also happen.

To date, 26 states have already passed resolutions calling for the convention, and similar resolutions have been introduced in every state except Michigan, Illinois, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York and Kentucky.

For such a convention to be called, two-thirds of the states — 34 — would have to request one.

Several states in addition to the 26 who have already approved the convention call, have action pending on the question in one or both houses.

The growing support for the calling of a constitutional convention that would force the federal government to balance the budget, is putting pressure on Congress to head-off any such unlimited citizen based move to amend the constitution.

According to President Carter, the same Carter who promised to cut government, "any such convention would be completely uncontrollable." According to Senator Robert Bird, "a balanced budget requirement could endanger national security or deprive the government of flexibility for handling economic problems."

The only notable exception to the list of ranking officials who have expressed opposition to the convention is California's Governor Jerry Brown.

Among the plans proposed to head-off the convention call are several which limit government spending to a ratio of either gross national product or previous federal spending levels.

So far, none deal with the real issue.

Like the Michigan tax revolt of '78, the national move to limit government spending finds the same forces lined-up on either side of the issue.

Government, its employees, and special interest, are firmly opposed to the convention while the taxpayers and some fugitive economists are supporting it.

There is no question that approval and adoption of a national amendment to require the federal government to balance the budget would create considerable pain for almost everyone. But the question, in the long run, is not our threshold for pain but the very survival of our way of life.

With inflation cited as the most serious problem facing us, and government's spending directly responsible for that inflation, the only cure for the problem cannot be overlooked any longer. A cut in government spending that will match income with expenditures. Any other course is unjustifiable in view of the ultimate consequences of lack of action.

To some, the move to limit government spending is simply another special interest group's efforts to improve their own situation.

But in the larger view, the taxpayer's revolt holds the promise of being the salvation for our system and way of life.

Narrow minded and selfish individuals will never concede that government's obligation is to serve everyone as equally as possible. Further, special interest will never willingly surrender its political advantage.

Given this situation, the collective voice of the people is the only accurate barometer of the proper course of action.

It is time for that advice to be taken and studied.

We support the goals of NTU nationally, and are disappointed that Michigan has not as yet joined in the call for a constitutional convention to limit federal spending.

We think that every Michigan resident should join in the struggle to see this convention called.

Last November, three separate tax reform proposals were listed on the ballot. Several million Michigan residents overwhelmingly supported the successful tax limitation amendment to this state's constitution.

Apparently, our elected representatives still have not gotten the message.

Our buses on the way

By EDUARDE E. MAHALAK
State Representative
38th District

January 1978 I reported to your newspaper my difficulties with the transportation proposal as proposed for Western Wayne County.

I stated at that time my views were and are for a comprehensive plan for the entire Western Wayne County. I am encouraged that progress is being made towards needed public transportation improvements in my district.

I am very happy to report, because of our concerted efforts, we will experience the first two buses in service April of 1979. The zone to be served included Belleville, Romulus, Townships of Huron, Sumpter and Van Buren.

I have worked for years to find ways to obtain effective bus services for this district and other areas of southeast Michigan, working with the state, local officials, especially Councilman Jimmie Raspberry, and the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA).

"I am presently very encouraged that we are moving toward that goal. Information that I have received indicates that we are moving closer to a solution to this longstanding problem."

A number of developments have occurred since January 1978.

During the final days of the legislative sessions the passage of the transportation package occurred, the commitment by Semta of providing bus service for our transportation area needs.

I have been appointed Chairman of the House of Appropriations Subcommittee on Highways and Transportation.

I wish to repeat, at this time, my statement in part of January 30, 1978, as the article appeared in this newspaper: January 17-18th, a large number of senior citizens from the area that I represent came to Lansing complaining of the failure of the State to meet transportation needs.

I was very pleased to converse with them because I recognize senior citizens as the group most seriously affected by poorly planned transportation service.

Now a new transportation package was being developed in Lansing and the pressure was heavy for my support.

The Southeastern Michigan Transit Authority (SEMTA) has lost credibility with me and I was taking a serious look at the new transportation package — in view of the prior commitments.

I was in the process of developing a plan that would include the furthest most western portion of Wayne County. I would only consider a plan making Romulus, Huron, Sumpter, Van Buren and Belleville a small segment of a large plan.

There is a strong need to achieve progress in public transportation for Romulus, Huron, Sumpter, Van Buren and Belleville, along with the rest of the County of Wayne.

Our area has been too long neglected by the Semta planners and by the Semta Board. We have taken a critical eye of all programs offered to benefit the communities. Hasty adoption of any plan just because some tokenism becomes available and because it is proposed by Semta planners was a foolhardy way to proceed.

Before I could support a plan, I had to have assurance that financing of any transportation system was sound and a system developed for the entire County of Wayne, with particular emphasis on the furthest most western part of the County. I did support the plan, and voted for Act 426, with the understanding that a plan would develop to provide transportation for the entire County of Wayne.

As a Representative who represents communities far removed from large metropolitan cities, I know we have received the least amount of attention.

The development of a system that was to include senior citizens and the handicapped was discussed.

Since 1974, in all the plans that had been developed, very little consideration for out-county had been given. Semta has attempted and is continuing to maintain close working relationships in the hope of continued support of the transportation package.

I am asking of the residents served by the bus service to avail themselves to the point way beyond our projection so we can demonstrate the need for more buses. The system has been developed to connect with other continued services needed by patron.

The energy crisis is here, and it is likely to get worse. Gas prices are skyrocketing and there is every indication that they will go still higher. Inflation has ballooned the price of automobiles and auto repairs and service. People are turning to public transportation, and I am convinced they will do so much more in the future.

As a legislator and member of the House Appropriations Committee, I have actively supported expanded and improved public transportation services in southeast Michigan and particularly in my district.

I believe that if we provide people with good, convenient bus service, they will use it. If there is a need for it, it will be successful. Semta records bear this out. We have more older people today. Many do not have cars, which limits their mobility. Even those who do have cars would, I feel make use of a convenient bus service.

There are communities in my legislative district that need transportation.

There is a growing need for bus service.

'Jiggly' future for the tube?

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

Well, the report is in.

For those of us who have been waiting patiently for the results of the latest poll produced by the National Federation For Decency (NFFD), the wait is over, although the results were certainly predictable.

The NFFD is a Tupelo, Miss., based organization which through volunteers, monitors thenation's airwaves and compiles ratings of the three major television network's emphasis on sex and profanity in their weekly programming.

The president and founder of the NFFD, Donald E. Wildmon, is an active minister in the church, and it was an evening's television viewing with his four children, which provided the impetus for the beginnings of the organization.

No longer willing to subject his family to "explicit sex" and profanity, Wildmon made the decision to fight back.

Organizing a loosely net group of volunteers from throughout the country, primarily churches and local clubs, Wildmon was able to put together his plan to make television networks and program sponsors accountable for programming.

In the words of Wildmon, when you're talking about television programming, you're really talking about television sponsors. "There is no use in talking to TV producers about improving. It is unfortunate, but necessary, for us to concentrate on the companies who sponsor programming if we are to effect a change."

With that philosophy as the base for the NFFD's attack on the TV media and its sponsors, volunteers spend three months of the year, compiling the data which is ultimately fed into computers for the final analysis.

Included in the detailed data collected by the NFFD workers is the total number of sexually suggestive remarks made on each network, each program and each sponsor of each program. In addition, data is collected on the frequency of the use of profanity by each network and show, and again, who the offending sponsor was.

When the computers finally begin to print-out survey results, headings, such as intercourse per hour, sex outside of marriage, sex inside marriage, sexual comments, top sponsors of sex, top programs of sex, top networks of sex, least sponsors of sex, least sponsors of profanity, and "jiggly", will be included.

"Jiggly" is defined by NFFD as undue and unnecessary emphasis on the female anatomy. The survey, conducted by 201 volunteers in nine states, concludes that the American Broadcasting Network (ABC) is the largest contributor of sex and profanity and is followed by CBS and NBC.

The top sponsor of sexually explicit television programming was listed as the Proctor and Gamble Company, followed by Bristol and Myers, American Home Products, General Foods, Unilever-Lever Brothers, Sterling Drugs and Heublein.

Xerox led the list of 'least sponsors of sex' followed by Datsan and Hershey. Sexiest shows on television included all the network movies followed by Soap, Love Boat, Three's Company, and Dallas.

Least sex-oriented programming included Grandpa Goes to Washington, the World Series, Lifeline, Project UFO and Little House on the Prairie.

While it is certainly true that the subject dealt with in the NFFD survey relies heavily on subjective judgment, the selection of the volunteers in the program is carefully done to promote accuracy, according to Wildmon.

Other studies appear to bear out that fact.

In 1977, Michigan State University was given a grant from the U.S. Office of Child Development, to produce a survey very similar to NFFD's.

That survey matched closely the results garnered by Wildmon and his volunteers.

For most of us, the final judgment on the merits of television programming and its impact on our families must be determined by our backgrounds.

But it is probably safe to say that continued television sex and profanity could very well lead to a "jiggly" future for the "boob tube."

Why didn't he call for help at once, not nine hours later after the submerged car had been discovered by others.

How could he, two hours after the tragedy, calmly discuss the weather with the owner of the motel where he was staying?

Shock some say, but his shock seemed to come and go according to any questions put to him.

To think that large numbers of otherwise clear thinking people could even consider this coward and cheat as a candidate for president of the United States boggles the mind.

The flag of the U.S. will fly at half mast and upside down in my yard if this person is ever president.

A very 'cool' mom

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

I am the one who could always stand out in the snow and never get cold... even in my skimmies! But this year something has happened. My thermostat has gotten stuck or maybe I've just got tired blood. Whatever, I haven't been warm since last September, and my family is determined that I won't be warm again until the sun comes out and stays.

There's the kid running around the house with five pairs of thermals on and his environmental conservation degree in his gloved hand, and he keeps turning down the thermostat.

"God, this family doesn't know anything about energy conservation. We're in a crisis... a crisis!"

"Don't take the Lord's name in vain," I tell him.

"I'm not. I'm praying. It's going to take a lot of prayer to get us through this crisis, especially when you think that the country is still run by old fogies."

I naturally walk away from him. That's one thing a mother learns. You can't argue with a kid. They know more than anyone and it will probably take twenty-five years before they find out they don't know anything. After they are parents.

So I put a match to the log, only to have this kid diving into the fireplace and stamping out the flame.

"Don't you know anything?" he shrieks.

"Burning logs works AGAINST energy conservation. The burning logs actually draw the warm air from the room and it goes up the chimney... and that makes the furnace work harder. There will be no fires in this house during the crisis."

Naturally I feel like pouring him down a drain, but to keep peace in the house I turn my back on the dead log and the screaming kid and try to unzip my husband's snug-snack.

"You're letting cold air in," he yelps and pushes me off his lap. But then he starts feeling a little bit sorry for me and he throws me his hot-sox, but it isn't my feet that are cold.

Before I can put on the hot-sox, George (our dog) lays down on top of the two and sticks his nose into them. When I try to pull them away he growls.

"His nose is cold, too," one of my kids said from the down comforter she is wrapped in.

"Maybe I could use part of your comforter," I ask her hopefully.

"Nope," she answers. "You'll let cold air in."

"But I'm cold," I wailed.

"Go up and read a Playgirl," my educated kid says and pulls his ski cap down over his nose. "That should warm you up!"

Good Humor — isn't that a name?By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

Red Skelton, many years ago, made a movie in which he portrayed one of America's most famous salesmen — the Good Humor man.

Just recently, Thomas J. Brimer expired at age 78. How does Brimer tie in with Red Skelton and the movie? Well, Brimer and his three brothers Harry, George, and Robert founded the Good Humor Ice Cream Corporation.

Owing to a corporate decision made last year, we will no longer see the familiar Good Humor trucks on the streets, but the taste treats offered by the corporation will still be available at company stores.

And they are some treats. You can have toasted almond, or a whammy stix, or a creamsicle, or a monkey bar.

Interestingly enough, the Brimer brothers did not invent the ice-cream-on-a-stick delicacy; that was the work of a genius in Youngstown, Ohio named Harry Burt.

Mr. Burt put his first Good Humor together in December 1920. It remained for the Brimer brothers to see the possibilities inherent in selling the goodies from a traveling store such as a truck.

I would guess that anyone today over the age of seven would immediately recognize a Good Humor truck. Good grief, even the trucks with their fancy painting looked like they could be eaten. And don't we all know the bells?

We could always tell when it was officially springtime in my Detroit neighborhood — we heard the bells of the Good Humor man.

Now you mustn't think that the road to the top was all paved with chocolate-covered vanilla ice cream. Just a couple of years ago, the Good Humor Corporation was indicted in New York for marketing ice cream with an illegally high bacteria count. For instance, the Coconut Supreme tested out at 350 and Orange Push-Up blew right off the chart.

A year later, 58 Good Humor men were busted in Hyattsville, New York because they were illegal aliens. I'm almost tempted to applaud such an ingenious cover. Who would ever think the Good Humor man was an infiltrator?

Some 16 years ago, the Maryland attorney general's office became the first of many to rule that the bells on the trucks were disturbing the tranquility of neighborhoods; hence, the bells in Maryland were muted.

Still, the corporation continues to prosper, despite the decision to take the trucks off the streets. And it seems to me that a little bit of Americana will disappear this summer with Good Humor trucks gone and in their place we will see (and hear) those traveling soda fountains which have now become common place; big trucks which sell everything sweet except the Good Humor.

And isn't that a name? Good Humor. Goodness, how can one be offended by that? If you think about that name, I'll bet you'll smile.

And what of those original salesmen. They all wore black leather bow ties, a white hat and uniform, and they all had a neat money changer on their belts.

All he had to do was push the little slide on the side of the changer and like magic money would drop out into his hand. Boy how I envied that man with the money machine. After I had acquired my own money changer—it was 1943 when I had a Detroit News paper route—I sadly discovered that one first had to put money into the changer before any would come out!

With the passing of Thomas Brimer, the last of the surviving brothers, I think we all ought to offer up a thank you for all of whom the bells have tolled.

On the Brighter Side

Doolittle
Really does it

By JIM BRADLEY

Now that most of the smoke has cleared from the last election and all recounts have been settled, I want to see my man who was sent back to Lansing.

My man — Really Doolittle — won by a 2-to-1 margin and any resemblance of "my man" to any politician, living or dead, is purely a matter of a guilty conscience on the part of the politician.

With all the legislators settled in their comfortable chairs, I figure now is a good time to visit my man in Lansing to find out the latest. After all, I haven't seen him since last November on the night he won re-election.

And with our busy schedules, I didn't get to tell you about my trip to his election headquarters as the returns were coming in. On election night I drove by the place — before I realized I had driven by the place. It looked like an empty store building, no signs, no people, just Really sitting there by a portable TV set.

Seizing upon the opportunity to get a first-hand exclusive interview, I grabbed my pen and notebook and walked in. Really Doolittle, not used to people, was a little cautious at first, but finally realized who I was.

I grasped his hand and congratulated him upon being re-elected to his office. "I understand you won by a 2-1 margin," I began.

"Yeah," Really sighed, "it was a close one all right."

"How can you call a 2-1 margin close?" I demanded. "That's an overwhelming victory, I'd say."

Really rubbed his chin and pointed a probing finger in my direction. "Listen," he remonstrated, "I mean I won by a 2-1 margin—I got two votes and my opponent got one! That's why I call it close!"

Since my good friend, Really Doolittle, hadn't done much campaigning for re-election I asked him why.

"I didn't want to remind them who was making such a mess up there in Lansing," he replied. "Besides, I was too busy planning junkets to far away places and planning to mail out campaign mail the last week."

I seized the moment of truth to ask the question that needed an answer. "Did you mail out a flood of election mail the last few weeks like some legislators?"

"No, I didn't," Really answered, much to my pleasure. He paused a moment — then added, "The printer was swamped with work and I couldn't get squeezed in. But I guess what the public doesn't know won't hurt them."

Getting back to his victory margin, I asked him how he managed to sneak back into office.

"Well," he said matter-of-factly, puffing on a big cigar, "I knew I had my vote and that my opponent had his vote. My wife was the only 'swing' or 'marginal' vote I was worried about. I think my doing the dishes for her every night the last two weeks won her vote."

I asked Really if he felt it was a fair campaign.

"No sir! I think I was the object of an underhanded attack of the lowest kind."

"What do you mean — be specific," I demanded.

Really pointed to a torn campaign poster on the floor. "My opponent tore down one of my campaign signs and I think that's terrible."

"What's so bad about one campaign poster being torn down," I asked.

"It was in my living room window at the time! Not only that, but I'm going to the unfair campaign practices commission to complain about my opponent's strategy."

"What was that," I asked blankly.

"Why, everywhere he went he spread the truth about me and dredged up my attendance and voting record as long as I've been in office. And what really hurt, was that he told it accurately every time — I couldn't fight back."

He paused to look at the battered old TV set as the election results flashed on the screen. His eyes flashed as his thoughts returned to his hard-fought campaign. "I'm glad that my opponent attacked my record."

"Why?" I straight-lined.

"Because it didn't give him much to aim at, did it?"

I told Really that I was impressed by the list of people supporting him, even though he only got two votes. "You were backed by the Committee for Good Government, the Committee for On-going Government, the Committee for Higher Wages and Lower Taxes and the Citizens for Better Legislators — my, that's some backing."

"Not really," Really returned, "you see, all those were one-man committees — namely me!"

As the sun peeked its bleary way over the horizon after we had waited the night through, the portable TV picture tube gave a groan and exploded. All the tautological rhetoric, bluff and bluster of electioneering was more than it could stand.

Staring at the shattered pieces of glass on the floor, I fired two last questions at Really Doolittle. "Really, do you think you'll win in your next election, considering your poor record in Lansing?" When he nodded in the affirmative, I asked him why he was so confident.

"It's simple, my opponent is the answer. His name is — Even Du-less!"

I ventured my last exclusive question. "Really Doolittle, if your constituents ever realize the job you're doing in Lansing, what will you be running for?"

"My life!" he called over his shoulder as he knelt to pick up the broken pieces of the TV picture tube.

Glenn, Canton sew up cage titles

Westlanders make it 3 straight

The unexpected and expected happened in the Northwest Suburban Conference basketball circuit Friday night.

Next, the expected: Westland John Glenn ripped Garden City East.

Consequently, though there are still two league games remaining for most of the teams, Franklin's upset and Glenn's victory settled the title issue. None of the field can catch the fleeing Westlanders who, with their eight consecutive league win, have sewed up their third straight conference championship.

"There have been a lot of surprises this year," said Glenn's Gordie Davis, "and, if anyone would have told me back in November that we'd win this like we did, I would have questioned that person's ability to reason."

Glenn has two toughies remaining - they entertain the upstart, Thurston, Friday night, then head for North Farmington the following Friday.

"They are capable on any given night of beating you and evidenced the way they pulled the one out against Franklin," Davis said of Thurston. "We would like to go undefeated in the league, but, I'm telling you our next two games are going to be real tough ones."

Despite the 19 point victory at East, Glenn needed a last period outburst to break loose from the pesky Panthers who came back from a 20-13 first period deficit to take the lead 36-35 at halftime.

Mike Kossick was responsible for most of Glenn's predicament as he peppered the nets with 10 of his 23 points in the second period. But the Rocket defenders shut him off the last period.

Meanwhile, Glenn's Daran Armstrong came alive and pumped in eight of his game high 28 points to thwart the upset-minded Panthers' hopes of a victory.

Armstrong became the first player in Glenn's history to score 1,000 career points. He now has 1016 with at least three more games remaining.

Ralph McKenzie wound up with 21 points and grabbed 11 rebounds for the champs and Tony Colucci added 13.

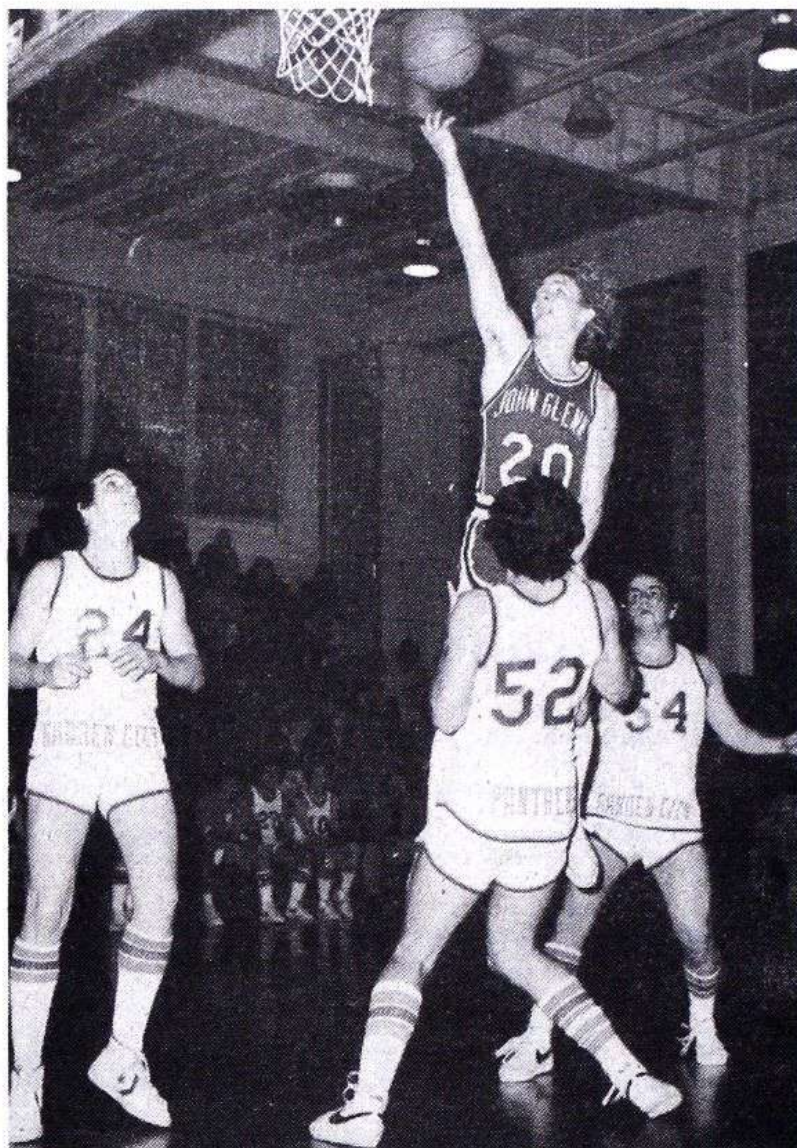

Earlier in the week, the Westlanders hosted their neighborhood rivals, Wayne Memorial, and won a decisive 84-53 victory as Armstrong picked up 20 points and three others - McKenzie, Colucci and Brad Jennings also scored in double figures.

Chiefs win it all in Western '6'

Though they have two more conference games remaining on the schedule, Plymouth Canton has in its possession its first Western Six Conference basketball championship.

Coach Craig Bell's Chiefs cinched the title last Friday by wiping out Walled Lake Western, 80-57. The victory lifted the Plymouth quintet three games above its nearest league rival and gave the six-year-old school the championship outright.

"It was one of the goals this team has been working toward," said Bell who is also rounding out his first year as head coach. "We are now shooting for an undefeated league season and to do as well as we can in the state tournaments."

Canton has Livonia Churchill on its mind Friday night (at Churchill) and will have a home crowd on hand next Friday when it wraps up the regular season against Northville.

"These kids have worked hard to win the title and I'm happy for them and the school," Bell added.

Walled Lake put up some early resistance and stayed in the game though they trailed by five, 18-12, after the initial eight minutes. But the Chiefs turned on the heat and outscored their rivals 20-12 to take a comfortable 38-25 lead into the lockerroom.

Forward Butch King, who's averaging 21.2 p.p.t., sacked 26 points, the game's high. Rusty Mandle, who had 11 assists, and 12 points, and Dave Visser, who chipped in 10 points, were the best of the supporting cast.

Canton travels to Churchill, which is having its problems this year, Friday night in search of its ninth consecutive league victory. The Chiefs are presently 14-4 on the year.

Armstrong stands tall

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Fred Thomann, one of the winningest high school basketball coaches in the state, pointed out to me that, according to a Sports Illustrated article, "there are nine prep cagers in the nation who are 7 foot or taller."

"Unfortunately," continued the Plymouth Salem coach, "none of those players are in the area."

How true. How true.

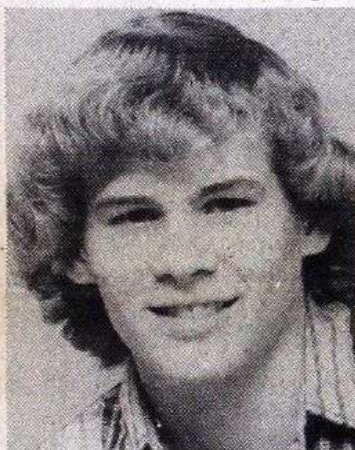

But there is one player who is standing tall these days, despite his 5'11", 150-pound frame. Though Daran Armstrong, (and please spell Daran with an "a" instead of an "e" or "i" says one of his closest relatives) may genetically be lost in the land of giants, the playmaking, sharpshooting guard stands above all of his predecessors at Westland John Glenn.

For, last Friday night, Daran became the first cager in Glenn's history to score 1,000 career points. He needed 16 more to reach that coveted plateau and Armstrong drilled in 28 against Garden City East to make him the scoringest player in that school's history.

And when you consider some of the outstanding cagers that Glenn has produced such as Brian Kaluzny, Jim Kholmman, Terry Johnson, Dave Carlington, J. P. McBride to name just a few.

"Daran has been the key to our team for the past three years," said Coach Gordie Davis. "He is a very unselfish player who passes off sometimes more than I would like him to."

And when you also consider that the opposition usually has two hound dogging his trail...well, Daran may not be a 7-footer, but he commands the attention of one.

Inkster to host AAU state tourney

On the subject of basketball, Inkster's new facility, the recreation center, has attracted AAU officials who apparently want and got the gym to stage the 1979 AAU men's state basketball tournament.

The winners of the 12-team state tournament will get a shot at the national regional, then the national title.

But, of course, the first step is to win the state and Inkster has a strong entry, according to former All-American, All-State Fred Smiley.

Smiley has put together a team that helped raised money for the Inkster Boys' Club and that team has been playing together so that it can compete in the AAU championships.

Dave Runyan of Inkster is handling the entries for the March 3-4 (first round) and March 10-11 (championship round) tournament.

No invitations have been sent out to cities because of the lack of time, according to Smiley.

"We feel if there any qualified Class A men's teams in the area who wish to compete they should contact Mr. Runyan at the Inkster Civic Center (729-9024) as soon as possible.

"I know that there are some excellent teams in the area that would like to take part, so we're using the newspapers to publicize the tournament."

There is a $100 team entry fee and both the winner and runnersups will receive trophies.

Romulus, Willow Run in cage rematch

The first time around Coach Rod Hanna and Romulus' Eagles had the home court advantage and managed to eke out an overtime victory over Willow Run.

Now, Willow Run, ranked No.7 in Class B state polls will get an opportunity to avenge that loss.

"They are tough," said Hanna after his team pulled out a 62-56 triumph over Monroe Catholic Central, a game that took two overtimes to settle the issue. "We had Vince Bean (who transferred to Southfield High two weeks ago) when we played them the first time, so the variable have changed."

"I expect this game to be one of the toughest we've been involved in all season," Hanna added.

Tougher that the Monroe Catholic Central tilt? Monroe refused to quit as the Huron Conference representative, sparked by 6-5 center Chris Hill, overcame a 45-37 third period deficit by outscoring their rivals 13-5 in the last period.

Deadlocked at the end of regulation time at 50-all, both teams scored four points in the first three-minute extra point, then Romulus' Darryl Lewis broke it open by tossing in six of the Eagles' eight points in the second extra frame.

The victory gave Romulus its 13th triumph in 17 starts this season.

"Monroe is the same team that played six OTs with Tecumseh this year," Hanna said, "and we were lucky to win it." The Romulus coach went on "to blame our inability to get our running game going as the main reason for the closeness in this game."

Catholic Central took a 17-15 after the first eight

Technical knock out

Parkers beat Inkster on controversial call

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

"I'm more hurt than hot!"

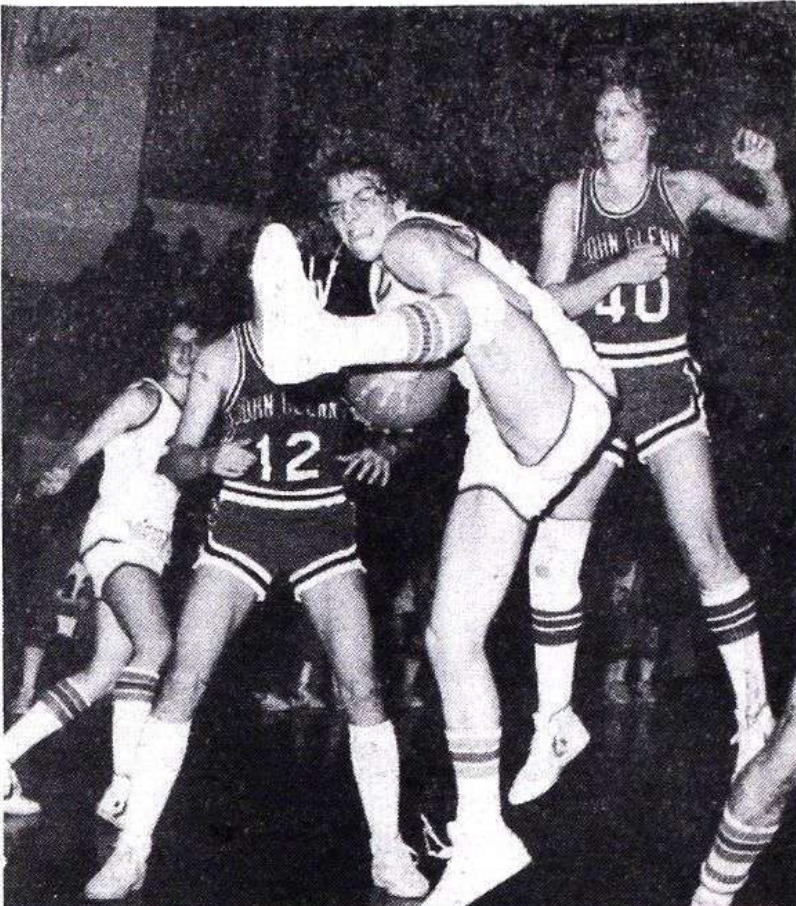

That was Coach George Thompson's explanation after a controversial and unusual call by the official gave Highland Park a 58-57 win Friday night in the rugged Suburban Athletic Conference.

After Inkster had rallied with seven consecutive points to tie the game 57-all with 40 seconds left in the game, Highland Park brought the ball downcourt. Then, as Thompson described it, "The ref supposedly counted 10 seconds as a warning to the defensive team (Inkster) to come out of its zone and put pressure on the ball."

"I motioned to my boys and Alvin Dukes came out on the ball and we had our other man just five feet from their other guard. Within three seconds the referee called a technical foul on our team."

Derrick Bursey sank the free throw to edge the Parkers in front 58-57 with 33 seconds left. Then, they

Cherry Hill, West meet again

Tri-River cage title is at stake

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

It's not exactly Daniel in the Lions' den but it's close.

Coach Dick McNally and his Cherry Hill Spartans will be tossed into the Tigers' lair at Garden City West Friday night and the battle in the "Home of the Dome" should decide the Tri-River League cage crown for this season.

Cherry Hill and West, whose gym has a picturesque dome roof, are

'Mine'

Coming down with the rebound is Garden City East's co-captain Mike Kossick who has blocked Westland John Glenn's Ralph McKenzie (40) and Brad Jennings (12) out from the boards. But this was a rare sight, indeed, Friday night as the Westlanders dominated the boards and the game 78-57 to win the Northwest Suburban Conference title outright. McKenzie accounted for 21 of his team's points while East wasted a 29-point effort by Kossick.

Junior high swimmer sets state 500-yard freestyle mark

Greg Dawkins is a "franchise" in himself.

The 14-year-old Stevenson Junior High swimmer, competing at the Cincinnati Pepsi-Marlin swimming invitational, turned in a torrid 4:49.13 to capture a gold medal and set a state record for the 500-yard freestyle competition.

Dawkins' enviable time would place the junior high swimmer among the best in high school competition, if he were eligible to compete.

The member of the Fitzgerald Swim Club didn't stop there, either. Greg went on to chalk up his second gold as he stroked a 1:47.76 in winning the 200-yard freestyle. He came back in the evening and did a 1:46.59, which is the state record.

Greg received his third gold medal as a member of the Fitzgerald 400-yard freestyle relay meet record.

Dawkins also placed fifth in the 50-yard freestyle, covering the distance in a fast 23.29, a fraction off the state record.

And, though he placed fourth in the 100-yard freestyle, Dawkins' time of 50.19 also eclipsed the existing record. In the finals he bettered that performance with a 49.71.

Greg also competed in the 200-yard individual medley and the 100-yard breaststroke.

The Cincinnati invitational lured some of the top amateur talent in the nation. The swimmers competed in age group competition, the brackets: 9-10, 11-12, 13-14 and the senior group.

Greg is coached by Fred Michalik and Jack Dunworth of Dearborn.

Greg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Galen Dawkins of Westland.

rolled up a record 74 points in the second half Friday to maul Dearborn Heights Riverside, 111-56.

"We're in a position to determine the outcome of the league race and we are going to be ready to play when we travel to Garden City West Friday night."

Cherry Hill, which has been averaging 88 points in its last five games, edged West, 56-55, in their first meeting.

The Spartans' win over Riverside was close the first half. Cherry Hill led 19-10 over the Tri-River celledwellers but the Rebels got their running game in gear to outscore the Spartans 23-18 in the second quarter to trail only 37-33 at halftime.

But any hopes of a miracle upset were dismissed quickly as Cherry Hill demolished the Rebels 39-10 in the third quarter to seal the outcome. Then the Spartan subs continued the barrage in the final stanza, riddling the nets for 35 points.

Riverside, which hit an amazing 15 of 15 free throw attempts in the first half, could only muster 13 final period points. D. J. Hammerschmidt, who hit 11 of 13 charity tosses, led the Rebels with 17 points.

Pierre Hudson led a quartet of Spartan scorers in double figures with 19 points. Andrew Simmons poured in 17 for his best offensive show of the year, while his brother, Floyd, and George Johnson each added 15.

Cherry Hill, now 14-3 on the season, rattled Taylor Center, 73-52, in last week's other game as Floyd Simmons netted 27 points and Hudson chipped in 14.

Now the Spartans face the Tigers of G.C. West. "We have superior quickness and better jumping ability," McNally said. "If we play our style of ball, we should win. However, they've been playing together three years now and have a lot of pride. It should be a real good game," the veteran Spartan coach said.

Leading Coach Chris Babler's Tigers will be 6-5 center Pat Dybas, 6-3 forward Jeff McCann, and Doug Boston, Gary Rago, Gary Pawenski, Gerald Tatro and Randy Richmond. The Tigers, now 12-5 overall, will have to control the boards to stay with the quicker Spartans in what shapes up as one of the finest games in the area this Friday night.

Wayne to host Wyandotte for final home cage game

Though they played with commendable verve, Wayne Memorial hit a cold streak in the last eight minutes at Monroe and bowed to their Great Lakes 8 Conference basketball rivals, 63-57.

Coach Steve Schwartz' Zebras will return home Friday night to host second place Wyandotte in a game set aside to honor senior members of the team.

"It's our final home game of the season," Coach Schwartz said, "and it will also be the last time our seniors will play at home."

Wayne's league record dipped to 3-9 on the season, while it is sporting an anemic 4-14 over-all mark. Monroe is now 8-4 on the league year.

Mark Zerna turned in his best over-all performance of the season as the Wayne senior pumped in 19 points and left the floor with the game's individual scoring honors. Teammate Kyle Poteau sank 12 points, while 6-4 junior Paul Fluegel chipped in with 10.

Monroe had problems with Wayne's tenacious man-to-man defense and only in the waning moments of the game when Willie Johnson grabbed two crucial rebounds and made two big baskets did the Trojans have the game in their mitts.

Trailing by one point after the first period 16-15, Wayne was behind 31-29 at intermission. Each team tossed in 16 points in the third period, but a 16-12 scoring advantage gave Monroe the victory.

"We just didn't shoot well in that fourth period," explained Schwartz. "We made only two of 16 shots in that span."

Wayne did however sink eight of nine free throws which kept them in the game. Another major problem was the boards - Kelvin Lee was slapped with two quick personal fouls early in the first period and was summoned to the bench and didn't see action until midway in the second period. He managed to get 11 rebounds and scored four points, far below his normal.

Wayne's dazzling against Monroe

Turning in one of the best over-all team performances, Wayne Memorial stunned Monroe 92-79 to establish itself as the team to beat in the Great Lakes 8 swim circles.

Coach Jim McPartlin, whose team is 5-0 in the league, needed this key victory in order to stay ahead of the field.

"We didn't expect to stop McCloskey," McPartlin said, "but I felt our depth would put us through in this one."

McCloskey, who has the top time in the 200-yard individual medley in the state, breezed past challenger Tom Brown to win his specialty in 2:03.1, then chipped in the 500-yard freestyle with a sterling 4:52.4 performance.

McCloskey and his teammates accounted for eight of the 11 first places, but Wayne picked up most of the second places when they didn't win an event.

Wayne's Dave Hills captured the 200-yard freestyle (1:49.4) and was second to McCloskey in the 500 freestyle. The Zebras also won the backstroke event thanks to Dan Butler and, with Steve Matheny, John Lewandowski, Tom Brown and Hills, won the crucial 400-yard freestyle relay.

This is it for Salem '5'

"It'll be our speed and quickness vs. their size and power," is the way Plymouth Salem cage coach Fred Thomann sized up his team's pending confrontation with Livonia Bentley.

The two Suburban 8 Conference teams will meet Friday night to decide which will, in all probability, wear the 1979 cage crown.

The word "probability" was inserted because the two co-leaders had a Tuesday night engagement with league rivals and if either slipped - or both - the variables obviously would change.

However, both teams entered the week with 8-1 record and each had a slice of the lead.

The first time around Salem surprised Bentley on the Bulldog court and won a nailbiting overtime decision. However, Salem slipped against a stubborn Edsel Ford quintet recently, causing the logjam on top of the standings.

Thomann brushed aside the philosophy that the home team had at least a 10-point advantage.

"No I don't believe this," said Thomann, "it's a matter of playing your game whatever you are and both teams have known since that first game it would come down to this game."

Tipoff is 8 p.m., folks. It should be another humdinger.

Belleville boxers eye Golden Gloves

A handful of area boxers including two young Belleville fighters will be shooting for Golden Gloves recognition when the prestigious tournament is staged the first week of March in Dearborn.

Randy and Donald Fecay - who are twins and are from Belleville - have their eyes on the 139 and 125 weight class championships, respectively.

The Golden Gloves tournament will be hosted by the City of Dearborn. Boxing will begin at 8 p.m.,

March 3 at the Dearborn Youth Center, Greenfield and Michigan Ave.

The winners will advance to the regional tournament either in Ann Arbor or Cobo Hall in Detroit. Tickets for the Golden Gloves Southeastern Michigan Championships are priced at $5 each and may be purchased either at the door or by telephoning the Dearborn Recreation Center, (LU 4-1200).

Belleville is district wrestling champ

Regionals are next test for area grapplers

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Belleville's wrestling program has come of age. From the rather obscure depths of the then Suburban 6 Conference, Coach Gerald Malecek has forged a team that has won the last two versions of the Suburban 8 Conference championship and last Saturday captured its first Class A district title.

With four of its 13 wrestlers winning gold medals, Belleville dominated the Class A district held at Walled Lake Western. The Tigers garnered 162½ points to beat out arch-rivals, Ypsilanti (124) for top honors.

Plymouth Salem's 117 points gave it a third place, followed by Farmington and Harrison with 88 and 70½ points, respectively.

Meanwhile, Wayne Memorial and Westland John Glenn finished second and third respectively to host, Temperance Bedford.

Bedford, the No. 1 ranked Class A team in the state, compiled an overwhelming 229½ points as compared to Wayne's 92½ and Glenn's 92. Trenton was third (88½) and Edsel Ford was fourth (84½) in a field of 18 teams.

The area harvested six gold medals at the two district championships. Belleville struck gold with Joe Justin (119½), Scott Harsch (126), Carl Winekoff (145) and Rick Winekoff (155).

Glenn reached the winner's circle with Billy Meyer, (155) who beat Wayne's Joe Glass in the finals, 8-3.

The only other area winner was Romulus' Darren Clire who claimed the heavyweight title at the Bedford tournament.

Belleville also received superb performances from runners-up Jeff Rose (138), Steve Cook (191), and third placers Dave Cook (98) and Terry Calhoun (178).

Coach Malecek's delegation will return to Walled Lake on Saturday to wrestle for the regional title and, as in the districts, those who finish among the top four their respective weight classes will qualify for the state championships.

The state tournament will return to Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo a week from Saturday.

Those who qualified out of the Bedford district, however, will travel to Hazel Park for their regional exam.

Glenn will take 191-pounder Bennett Clemons, who was a runner-up, Duane Gibbs, who finished in third place at 145, along with Pete Bologna (98) who wound up in fourth place.

Though Wayne was shut out from first places, the Wolfpack did muster up a pair of silver medalists in Dave Lusk (165) and Glass (155).

Wayne also qualified Dave Shell, who finished third at 98, and Frank Turgeon, also a third placer at 126. Ron Pittman, a 112-pounder, and Lou Toarmina, a 138 pounder, finished fourth and will advance to the regionals.

Wayne coach John Wood labeled the Bedford districts "as Awesome."

"It's really a pity," said Wood, "because the teams that were represented there just made that district an awesome one, and consequently, many excellent wrestlers will be left at home."

What a cage comeback for Tigers

Spotting Trenton 19 excessive points in the first period, Belleville put on a furious rally and caught the Trojans at the wire, then beat them in an overtime, 54-49, last Friday. "It has to be the comeback story of the season," said Belleville Coach Tom Niemi whose minions evened up their Suburban 8 Conference record at 5-all. "I was truly pleased at the way our kids stayed with the game plan and kept picking away at the lead."

Sophomore Earl Watson could have averted the extra work, but the lanky Belleville center missed a two-shot foul with seconds left in regulation.

Watson came back in the three-minute extra period and tossed in four points and Herb Burns also added four, while Scotty Straight hit a free throw to cinch the victory.

Burrus, the impetus of the Belleville attack, looked good at both ends of the court. He tossed in a game high 21 points and also had several key assists.

Trenton had what appeared a commanding 23-4 lead after the first period, but the Tigers refused to quit and outscored their rivals 16-8 to come within 12 tying it up at half-time, (31-20).

Belleville then outscored the Trojans 12-8 in the third period and 13-6 in the fourth.

Watson, who grabbed 19 rebounds to go along with his 13 points, had his problems at the free throw line where he made but three of 15 chances.

Coach Niemi pointed out that Mike Sampson and Charles Blackmon's work on defense were key factors in the comeback story.

"When you're down by so many points players usually have the want to quit," Niemi pointed out, "but our kids kept their pose, I'm really proud of them."

Airport ambushes New Boston, 83-63

What a difference a couple of weeks makes.

In their first meeting of the season, New Boston Huron lost by one point to Carleton Airport, but the second time around Airport left little doubt in anyone's mind which was the better team.

Outscoring Coach Gene Smith's quintet 20-12 in the second period, Airport won a convincing 83-63 decision over the Chiefs Friday night.

And they did it on the Huron court. "We knew that they were a better team than they showed us the first time," Coach Smith conceded. "Our one fear is that they would put it all together, and they did."

One of the big reasons for Airport's success was Wally Malone, a 6-6 senior forward who hit on six of seven shots in the first half, then peppered the nets with five of six in the second half and walked off the floor with 22 points.

That gave Malone a share of individual scoring honors with Huron's Kermit Burke, who grabbed 11 rebounds, duplicating Malone's scoring efforts. Randy Pichan also chipped in 21 points and 16 rebounds while Jay Richert counted 12 points for the Chiefs.

"With that kind of balanced scoring you'd think that the game would have been closer," said Smith.

Actually the two middle periods did Huron in. After trailing 34-24 at the half, the Chiefs fell further behind as Airport, led by Malone, outscored them 27-16 in the third period.

"We didn't play defense," Smith admitted. "And they also beat us on the boards."

Huron will don "spoiler's robes" Friday night in hopes of tarnishing league-leading Tecumseh's record.

of Project Counterpoint, will be the recipient of some of the proceeds of the Detroit Pistons vs. New York Knicks NBA game.

Half of the ticket money from that March 15 game will filter back into Counterpoint's coffers, so why not help a good cause and enjoy a game at the same time.

Hopefully, Silverdome's management will have their heating problems all straightened out by that time.

John Nibert fans will be happy to learn that his injury last week will not keep him on the bench. The former Wayne Memorial star, who is among the top scorers at Albion College and in the MIAA, suffered what doctors called a sprained ligament on the inside of the right knee.

Nibert, a rugged 6-5 pivotman, sustained the injury late in the first half against Olivet and played only 51 seconds of the second half before he began to complain. Before heading for the bench, John had scored 16 points in his team's 57-55 victory which lifted him to third place on Albion's all-time scoring chart. He now has 1,250 career points.

Nibert was expected to be in uniform last night when Albion took on Alma. He missed Saturday's 64-53 triumph over Olivet, however.

Scoring at a 23.8 per game clip and grabbing on an average 10.4 rebounds per, John is presently the team's leading scorer and the league's absolute (all games - nonleague and conference) leader.

Albion is sporting a 9-1 MIAA record and is presently in first place. A victory over Alma would provide the champs with their second straight title and a berth in the MCAA Division III playoffs.

'Surprises' punctuate Over 30 hockey action

An upset, a missed penalty shot and some sterling individual performances punctuated the Wayne-Westland Over 30 Hockey action last week.

Meanwhile, Brock's took a giant step closer to the championship by blasting 4-Seasons Sports Shop by a 11-3 count. A four-goal first period was more than enough to convince 4-Seasons it was no match for the league-leaders.

John Dombrowski and Dave Zajac fired in four goals apiece to lead the attack on the porous net-minding. Rod Dittmar added a pair of goals with Buddy Brock supplying the other.

Ken Carter chipped in with five assists, while Ron Wojewski accounted for a three-goal hat trick for the losers.

Tastee Freez jolted Futurama Engineering, skating to a 6-4 victory. And that all about ends the engineers' hopes of a championship.

Futurama continued its slump as it has now dropped four of its last six contests.

Lee Calloway had a superb night as he chalked up a hat trick and also contributed three assists. Dave Cherry, Dan Droz and Corky Hays each scored for the winners.

Bill Kesky picked up a pair of goals for the losers who also received a goal each from Don Midaugh and Tom Bryans.

Jack's Sports Center remained in second place thanks to a 7-5 victory over Extra Point Bar. The victors pulled away from a 4-all knot in the second period with a three-goal surge during the third frame.

Jerry Grube had four goals for Jack's with Nick Palise and Jerry Robertson each adding one and four assists. John Kunz also tallied for the winners. Extra Point had goals from five different players - John Davis, Larry Kaifesh, Rick Mullen, Ken Beal and Marv Borycki.

The game also produced the first penalty shot of the season.

When an Extra Point defenseman threw his stick at a loose puck, Jack's John Kunz was awarded the penalty shot - and E.P. goalie, Ron Mullendore proved he was ready as he thwarted the Kunz' efforts.

In the final game of the evening, Johnson's scored two goals in each period to put away Huron Valley Total, 6-3. The winners were aided by some sterling goaltending by Don Smith.

Ron Johnson had his biggest offensive night of the season as he sacked three goals and two assists, while Terry Johnson, Mike Forynski and John Castellanos also scored.

Huron Valley got on the scoreboard thanks to Conrad Madelano, Ray Gabbert and Danny Thomas.

Back in action Sunday night, Tastee Freez pairs up with Jack's at the Westland Rink, beginning at 8:30 p.m., while Four Seasons matches its skills with Johnson's at 10:30.

Meanwhile, Futurama takes on Extra Point at 9 p.m., and Brock squares off with Huron Valley at 10:30 p.m. Both games are at the Wayne Arena.

Inkster cagers lose on last-minute 'technical'

The highly questionable call spoiled perhaps Inkster's finest performance of the year. Thompson brought 6-3 sophomore center Kenneth Winfrey up from the JV squad and the rookie did an excellent job against the taller Parkers.

The game was close all the way, with Inkster taking a 12-10 first quarter edge before falling behind 27-24 at the half. The arch-rivals matched each other with 16 points in the third quarter and the Vikings won the last stanza, 17-15.

Darryl Willis, who hit well from the outside, led Inkster with 18 points. Eric Crouch, who sank two free throws to tie it 57-57 before the "fatal" technical call, played well on the boards and sank 12 points.

Dukes added 11 markers for the Vikings who fell to 6-7 and 3-2 in the SAC league.

Inkster travels to play a rugged Ecorse team this Friday night in a "do-or-die" game.

Dressing up grapefruits

Your taste buds need not go on a diet, even if you're cutting calories. The refreshing flavor and extra measure of juiciness found in Texas Ruby Red grapefruit have made them a morning favorite. Dressed up or enjoyed pure and unadorned each rosy half is the basis for a satisfyingly slender start to the day.

But don't limit Ruby Reds to breakfast — their versatility makes them a natural at any meal. The tart sweet flavor is a refreshing compliment to creamy deviled egg or chicken salad, a crunchy Waldorf or icy scoops of strawberry or raspberry sherbet garnished with a sprig of mint.

A sparkling mountain of pure refreshment, Fresh Grapefruit Aspic provides a welcome change from the filling soups and sandwiches that often grace the luncheon table. A soft mound served on the half shell makes a meal deliciously low in calories, with a double measure of all of the goodness Nature has packed into each Ruby Red half. Grapefruit juice prevents the gelatin from becoming too firm, guaranteeing a delicate texture. And the tree-ripened fruit has juice so naturally sweet it requires no additional sugar.

With juicy Ruby Reds weighing in at only 50 calories per half, there's room to splurge a little on a scrumptious topping for a light dinner dessert. Creamy ambrosia piled high on a Ruby Red half, showered with nuts and topped with a cherry creates an affordable indulgence Texas style.

Texans have long boasted some of the best grapefruit available, and with good reason. The Lower Rio Grande Valley combines a rich clay soil with subtropical climate to produce an exceptionally thin skinned fruit. This guarantees sweet flavor and added juiciness. And Texas Ruby Red grapefruit pack is a lot of nutrition. Easy rosy half supplies 70 per cent of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for vitamin C as well as a significant amount of vitamin A.

Fresh Grapefruit Aspic

6 to 7 Texas Ruby Red grapefruit
3 envelopes unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold water
6 maraschino cherries

Halve 3 to 4 of the grapefruit. Juice enough grapefruit to measure 2½ cups. In small saucepan soften gelatin in water; then dissolve over low heat. Stir in juice. Chill until firm. At serving time, loosen sections in remaining grapefruit halves and leave in place. Spoon gelatin on top, dividing evenly. Garnish with cherries. Makes 6 servings.

Grapefruit Ambrosia

1 cup sour cream
1 cup miniature marshmallows
2 teaspoons sugar (optional)
3 Texas Ruby Red grapefruit, halved
¼ cup chopped nuts
6 maraschino

In bowl, gently mix together sour cream, marshmallows and sugar. Chill. At serving time, loosen sections in grapefruit halves, leaving them in place. Top with a scoop of ambrosia. Arrange in dessert dishes. Garnish with nuts and cherries. Makes 6 servings.

All recipes have been tested by a consumer panel.

EDITOR'S NOTE: With all those oranges and grapefruits the community has ordered from Belleville High School Band members due to arrive on Saturday, we picked these grapefruit recipes especially for you. For a change from the conventional grapefruit half sprinkled with sugar, you might like to try either of these easy, interesting concoctions.

Babies make news at Romulus City Hall

Babies (of all subjects) were the topic of conversation early this month at Romulus City Hall where two of the "feature players" in two recent births are well-known personalities.

The first of the two arrivals (born practically back to back) was Yolanda Louise Buffington whose mother is secretary to Romulus City Clerk Leonard Folmer.

Making her debut at 1:57 a.m. Feb. 5, "Yoki" (as she's being called) weighed a petite six pounds - 14 ounces and measured 18 inches. The first child of Oliver and Karen Buffington of 35705 Bibbins St., Romulus, she was born at Metropolitan Hospital in Detroit.

The proud grandparents are James Munger of Romulus and Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Buffington of Detroit.

The following day, on Feb. 6, the second daughter of Larry and Lynda Moore put in her appearance at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne at 10:05 a.m.

Titled "Monica Michelle", she weighed six pounds - 14½ ounces and was 19½ inches long.

Five-year-old Jennifer Nichole Moore, who shares the family residence at 8786 Whitehorn in Romulus, has been busy giving her mother a helping hand with the new baby.

Mrs. Moore, the former Lynda Corder, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Corder of Brownstown Township. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moore of Romulus.

Monica's daddy is financial director for the City of Romulus.

Chamberlain's 42nd anniversary celebrated

By Mrs. Joseph Spring 699-4021

On Sunday, Feb. 11, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Chamberlain of Eureka Road, Romulus, were honored guests at a dinner held at Yee's Chinese Restaurant in Mt. Clemens for their 42nd wedding anniversary.

Sponsors for the occasion were their two daughters and two sons with their husbands and wives: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Willschick of Sterling Heights; Mrs. Martha Galvin (her husband, Don, being unable to attend because of illness) from Mt. Clemens; Mr. and Mrs.

Jim Chamberlain of Omstead and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Chamberlain from Sterling Heights, who also presented their parents with a purse of money.

Ronald McKelvey of Bemis Road returned home last Thursday from Englewood, Fla. where he had spent several days with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Paul McKelvey.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schaal of West Columbia Avenue recently returned from a trip to England where they had spent the past month visiting Mrs. Schaal's relatives and friends. They spent some time with her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Warren at Weston Super Mare in England's West Country and with an Aunt, Mrs. Rose Green at Birmingham, as well as doing a little sightseeing and picture taking.

On Saturday evening, Feb. 10, Mrs. Alice Herkimer entertained at a family dinner at her home on Denton Road in celebration of the February birthdays of her brother, Albert Riggs, his wife, Ann, and their son, Mark of Haggerty Road. Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Riggs of Farmington Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Riggs and Miss Florence Renton of Savage Road and Mrs. Gertrude Mason of West Columbia Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George Haft of Church Street were Sunday afternoon callers on cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Hoeft of Plymouth.

Dinner guests Sunday at the Second Street home of Mrs. Norman Miller were her daughter, Mrs. Aileen Mengel of Ann Arbor, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller of Garden City. The occasion was in celebration of Aileen's birthday.

Mrs. Wade Neely of Westland was a weekend guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Welt of Willis Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard McKelvey and family of Romulus spend Sunday afternoon with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKelvey of Bemis Road.

Fourteen members of the First United Methodist Church motored to Birmingham on Tuesday of last week where they attended a luncheon and program at Kingsley Inn for the benefit of the Methodist Children's Village. Ted Strasser of radio fame was Master of Ceremonies.

Sunday afternoon callers at the Church Street home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hatch were their granddaughter, Melissa McCoy of Ann Arbor, and her friend, Gary Turbett of Plymouth.

Mrs. Margery Potter of Liberty Street spent Tuesday and Wednesday with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard LeMoine and family of Livonia.

Retiree honored

The Elwell PTO held a recent potluck luncheon to pay tribute to Mrs. Vera McDermott, fifth grade teacher, who was retiring. Mrs. McDermott who has taught in Van Buren Public School for 19½ years, was honored with gifts and flowers with PTO president Mrs. Georgianna Warren making the presentation. Attending along with the staff of Elwell School were four retired Elwell teachers: Mrs. Esther Deering, Mrs. Lois McCully, Mrs. Mildred Coburn and Mrs. Leota Whalen. Mrs. McDermott is shown with the pewter candlesticks she received from the Elwell Elementary staff.

Gail Whitt takes double honors at recent pageant

Gail Whitt, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Whitt of Belleville, was recently crowned Miss Junior Teen Valentine Princess and Junior Teen Talent winner in a competition sponsored by the North American Pageant System. The Feb. 10 event was held at Livonia Mall in Livonia.

Her new title qualifies Gail to compete in the 11 to 14-year-old age division for the Michigan State title in June at Eastern Michigan University.

In the modeling competition Gail wore a long white gown which had been designed and made for her by her grandmother, Mrs. Marie Santarallo of Dayton, Ohio.

Gail presently is a student at Masters of Dance Arts, Inc. of Canton. She won the talent division by performing a lyrical-gymnastic routine. Double prizes for winning the twin titles in the pageant included two trophies, two crowns, two banners and two boxes of Valentine candy.

If Gail qualifies at the state pageant, she will travel to the national competition in July for the competition of North America Junior Teen talent and Miss Junior North America. Gail was little Miss North America in 1977 when she competed in the 7 to 10-year-old category. Most recently Gail was selected to play one of the orphans in the musical, "Annie." A fifth grader at Elwell Elementary School, Gail's ambition is to be an actress and performer.

Another area girl, Cheryl Abbley of Romulus, won second runner-up and third runner-up in the various divisions which qualified her for state competition.

Good teeth for you and your baby

Regular tooth care at home and from your dentist and a healthful diet during your pregnancy will help you to keep your own teeth in good condition and will provide your baby with the best possible start toward healthy teeth throughout life.

To protect your teeth during pregnancy good dental habits are most essential. There are easy-to-remember practices that will help you to keep your teeth strong and healthy.

- o Clean your teeth by brushing with a fluoride toothpaste after every meal or snack. Use dental floss at least once a day to remove food debris and bacteria lodged between the teeth.
- o Eat a diet that includes lean meat, fruit, vegetables, bread and cereal, and milk. Avoid sweet, sticky foods and sugar-containing soft drinks. These foods only add unwanted weight and they can cause tooth decay.
- o See your dentist regularly for routine dental care and for any special dental treatment you may require.
- o Drink fluoridated water.
- To protect your baby's teeth, your responsibility begins long before the baby is born. Early in pregnancy, the baby's teeth begin to form. The foods you eat supply the baby's need for vitamins, minerals, and other nutrients. At birth, 20 primary (baby) teeth are already formed in the baby's jawbone.

Shortly before birth, the enamel of the permanent teeth (which will not appear in the mouth until the child is about 6 years old) begins to develop.

Babies need drinking water. Water containing a sufficient amount of fluoride will strengthen the enamel and make the teeth more resistant to decay. If you local health department advises that your water supply is deficient in fluoride, ask your doctor about fluoride drops for your infant.

Provide your baby with nourishing foods. Do not give the baby sweetened cereals or fruit to which sugar has been added. Children develop their taste preferences early and they will eat unsweetened foods just as readily.

After the baby teeth erupt into the mouth, it is not a good idea to let the baby go to sleep with a bottle of milk or fruit juice. Prolonged exposure of the tiny teeth to the sugar in the formula or juice can result in tooth decay.

When your baby is from 6 to 12 months old, the first four front teeth will appear. Begin immediately the good dental habits that are the keys to healthy teeth throughout life. Clean the baby's first teeth with a washcloth or gauze pad.

As more teeth erupt, brush them thoroughly, but gently, using a fluoride toothpaste. Since small children cannot do an adequate job of toothbrushing, parents should brush the teeth for the child. Make toothbrushing time a happy time.

Take your 2-year-old to the dentist for the first check-up, and then at regular intervals thereafter. Should any tooth decay be present in the child's mouth, it should be repaired. Loss of baby teeth can lead to badly placed permanent teeth and to problems with speaking and eating.

R. Stonik, A. Scott handling annual GS cookie sale

The local women are among the 30 persons appointed by Huron Valley Girl Scout Council cookie sale chairman Ruth Weber to organize and conduct the sale in their designated areas. Rose Stonik of 50333 Willis Rd., Belleville, and Ann Scott of 10880 Willis Rd., Willis, will help, also, to recruit and then train troop cookie chairmen on sale procedures.

The goal for this year's sale, which begins Feb. 23 and ends March 19, is to sell a half million boxes. If this is realized, it will mean a Girl Scout profit of $365,000. Profits help supplement funds from United Ways, fees and other contributions, and help to insure a high quality of Girl Scout programs available to all girls in Washtenaw, western Wayne, northern Monroe and Livingston counties.

Autumn date set by Armatis-Sykes

A senior at Belleville High School, Cathy Ann Armatis, is engaged and making plans for an autumn wedding. Her fiancé, James Thomas Sykes, graduated from Belleville High School in 1977 and is now working for the Ford Motor Company in Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Armatis of 21435 Wilmot Rd., Belleville, are announcing their daughter's engagement and wedding plans.

The bride-elect, who is employed at McDonald's on Rawsonville Road, has reserved St. Stephen's Church in New Boston for the Sept. 8 altar date.

The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sykes of 18070 Savage Rd., Belleville.

Use a pretty dish

Isn't it amazing how an attractive serving dish can add a touch of elegance to a simple recipe? For example, you can prepare fruit flavor gelatin in a mold and it makes an eye appealing addition to any table.

Prepare the 3-ounce size of your favorite flavor according to the simple package directions, decreasing the amount of cold water to ¾ cup. Pour into mold and chill until firm.

Dip just to the rim in warm water for about 10 seconds. Shake to loosen and top with a wet plate. Invert the plate and the mold together and remove the mold.

Sometimes flowers are the only way your heart can speak.

We have a complete selection of sympathy arrangements and wreaths at all prices. Phone us or stop in.

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

A recent feature on manners in the big city press really hit home as far as this column is concerned. What with our running commentary on our personal little gripes, I couldn't help but smile when Eleanor Breitmeyer brought to light Christina Ford's pet peeve.

Since it's one with which many hostesses in our readership will identify, I decided to give it a little ink.

Christina's complaint is the person who comes for dinner and scarcely touches his or her plate. "When a hostess has gone to great pains and expense to buy fine wines and prepare a delicious dinner, I think it is the height of bad manners to just pick at the food," she said.

And we've all seen it happen, haven't we? That breed which spends the whole meal rearranging the food on his or her plate but not eating. They're also the ones who take huge helpings of everything and leave the bulk of it.

Having done a small bit (a few weeks back) on what makes the difference between a successful hostess and a flop, this week we'll dwell a bit on how to rate as a top-notch guest.

Rule Number One for making a big hit with your hostess — always arrive late, prolong the cocktail hour and delay the planned time for dinner. That way the meat will be dry, the salad limp, the vegetables overdone and the rolls back to their original room temperature (the way everyone likes food.)

Not only should you be the last to arrive but make sure your hostess knows you were "really having a blast" elsewhere. Make sure you're well on your way to being sloshed; she'll love that!

Monopolize the conversation; after all, what YOU have to say will leave your listeners enrapt and literally hanging on the edges of their seats. Always but always be the expert on every subject and be sure to let everyone else know they're wrong, after all you've gotten your facts from the previous cocktail party whereas they merely read the last Newsweek or Time for their data.

Spill things at the table, pass up the food and just enjoy another cocktail (she'll love hearing you say you'll help yourself), butt out your cigarettes in her fine china cups and rave about what a good cook your wife is.

Fix drinks for the rest of the crowd and make 'em 90-proof. She'll think you're a super guy for taking over the bar detail, slopping the booze, trying to get everyone tight. She'll get a big thrill, too, seeing the bulk of the drinks left wasted due to their alcoholic content.

When the hostess tries to explain the game she has planned, be sure to laugh and carry on and try to get everyone to agree that "that's kid-stuff." Keep butting in as she attempts to get things organized and keep trying to get the "guys" out to the bar area for some "man-talk."

Let her know your true feelings about party games. Keep laughing at everyone else who's trying to comply. When it's your turn, act the buffoon — that way no one will know whether you're really stupid (and can't catch on) or just kidding around.

Keep drinking but be sure to point out that if it were YOUR party you'd certainly be serving Chivas Regal instead of that cheap stuff. Don't touch any food or nibbles, whatever you do, that way you can come unstrung early in the evening and delight the crowd with your surliness, sloppiness and altogether repulsive personality.

And above all, be the very last to leave — and when you do, don't bother to say thank you for a nice time. After all, her party DID drag you away from that FUN time you were having; she DID get pretty insistent about getting you to the table; she sure couldn't cook like YOUR wife; and she DID inflict those corny games on you. So — why bother to say thanks. You really had a lousy time!

You can be sure that, following those wise tips, you'll be the very first she adds to her next guest list.

You won't believe they're factual, but the following is a list of names which belong to real people. Taken from "First Names First" by Leslie Alan Dunkling, the roster includes Etta Apple... May B. Dunn... Pearly Gates... June Weed... More Payne... Virginia Ham... Ima Hogg... I.M. Good.

And you cringe when I tell you I almost named Luanne Mary Chris Smith? (That's an old family joke, son.)

Local women to head up March of Dimes campaign

The Metropolitan Chapter, March of Dimes Mothers' March on Birth Defects is taking place March 1 through 8 in communities in and around the metropolitan area. The Mothers' March, a door-to-door campaign, is an important source of support for both local and national March of Dimes programs geared to fight birth defects.

Traditionally, volunteers of the Mothers' March held their drive in January. Key volunteers in this area are Mrs. Toni McCarthy of Belleville and Mrs. Sandra Hoinka of Romulus.

MESSAGE TO VALTER: It sure was nice having you back among the "Yankees" again last week. But is it necessary to return looking so tanned and slim? You really know how to hurt your pals.

Two calls, regarding last week's quest for your favorite songs, came last Wednesday and helped put a little life in an otherwise dreary day. Having been home for three days straight with a "bug", it was with real pleasure that I took a call from Mary Merckel of Romulus.

Her "top 10", she said, would definitely let you know something of her background what with "Moonlight in Vermont" and "Hail to the Victors" at the top of her list.

A native of the New England states, Mary graduated from U-M. Her other favorites include "Birth of the Blues" — "Yesterday" — "Skater's Waltz" — "Blue Tango" — "On a Clear Day" — "Hawaiian Wedding Song" — and "America the Beautiful." Thank you for taking the time to add a little outside interest in "potpourri".

Later in the day Olga Randolph of Van Buren Township called in her list which, she said, would be a dead giveaway to what age group she's in. Makes no difference, Olga — this bit is for EVERYBODY.

She particularly loves "How Great Thou Art" — "Summertime" — "Ol' Man River" — "Onward Christian Soldiers" — "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" — "Edelweiss" — "The Christmas Song" and "Blue Danube Waltz."

Incidentally, the others I finally came up with for my total of 10 (there are just too many great tunes) were "The Stripper" — "Rhapsody in Blue" and "Moonlight Serenade."

EVER WONDER CORNER: Ever wonder how the statement "Let's talk turkey" came to be?

The wild West had sayings as colorful as the scenery — and tall tales to back them up. Like the one about the frontiersman and the Indian who went hunting with the understanding that they'd divide the game equally.

They bagged three lean crows and two plump turkeys. Carefully the white man divided the loot, but he craftily gave the Indian the crows, keeping the turkeys for himself. "That's three birds for you and only two for me," he dodged. Retorted the astute Indian, "Let us not talk bird; let us talk turkey!"

So — "talk turkey" became a frontier phrase for dealing realistically with the facts.

A note arriving at our Wayne office last week came from a woman in Westland who had chanced on "potpourri" the week that "Friendship is..." was featured. She'd like to add a few of her own feelings about friendship and for this bit we have Mrs. Marian Knudsen to thank.

FRIENDSHIP IS (she feels) ... sharing a vacation ... fond memories ... being able to ask advice ... being able to GIVE advice ... being met at the airport ... giving a helping hand without being asked ... letters ... cider and donuts after the high school football game ... listening (without interrupting) ... sympathy cards ... an invitation to dinner on a week night without it being for an "occasion" ... dropping in on each other ... a family that cares.

DID YOU KNOW — that the vanilla bean (the all-important ingredient in homemade kahlua) is the fruit of the orchid? The most popular of all flavoring agents, it comes from the dried pods of special species of orchids. And, too, the best varieties of vanilla pods are of a dark chocolate brown or nearly black color.

THE BOTTOM LINE: If you must hold yourself up to your children as an object lesson, hold yourself up as a warning and not as an example.

Steve is spell-down winner

Students from the four upper grades at St. Anthony's Catholic School participated in a spelling bee Feb. 6 in conjunction with the Detroit News' annual competition. Ed Scott, eighth grade teacher, conducted the contest. From the 40 who took part in the spell down, the above five were finalists: Patti Kosin (from left), Lynette Babik, Steve Henry, the winner; Jimmy Murray and Gila Dorotskar. Steve will next take part in the Regional Spelling Contest to be held April 4. A spell-down held in the primary grades earlier that same day saw Lisa Jaszcz emerge as winner and Sean Gleason and Lara Ceresko as runners-up.

History of gardens reviewed at Van Buren Garden Club

"Gardens of the Bible" was the subject of the Van Buren Garden Club meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Deering on Feb. 13. Ten members presented the program, beginning with the creation of the Garden of Eden and then the creation of man to tend the garden, pointing out that gardening is the oldest occupation in the world.

In biblical times, gardens were located some distance from the homes not the back yard variety to which we are accustomed. Outside the city limits, along a river or lake to provide easy irrigation, a garden was walled or surrounded by hedges to assure quiet and privacy. People used them for meditation and prayer or as secluded places for bathing. Also the gardens often afforded place for entertaining and many included a summer house.

Early gardens were a source of herbs and spices. Used primarily for medicinal purposes, they were also used in their worship at the temples and to supplement their diets and even to make perfumes.

One of the most common herbs was rue (ruta graveolens) which grew wild and was used as a disinfectant as well as medicine. The bitterness of rue encouraged the use of mint and anise for flavoring and making the medicine more palatable. Cinnamon was mentioned as early as 1600 years before the Christian era and used in oils by the priests. Housewives used it to perfume their kitchens and their beds.

An old formula for perfume shows that 2 parts of myrrh and two parts of cassia and one part cinnamon and one part sweet calamus was mixed with enough olive oil to form a base. Sweet calamus being a reed which grew to a height of two feet and was so aromatic that even while growing in the gardens, it filled the air with its sweet scent.

Little was mentioned of flowers in the gardens, except for lilies, both field and water lilies, also roses and narcissus and a flower called mandrake. Translation of the bible has left us in doubt as to what a mandrake could be — perhaps a violet or even a jasmine and some speculate it could possibly be a mushroom.

Early vegetables include melons, cucumbers, onions, garlic and leeks. Leeks were a general term for many greens.

Trees mentioned in biblical gardens included palm trees and acacia trees as well as oaks, walnut, almond and the sycamore and the famed Cedars of Lebanon.

An example of an impored tree was the Balm of Gilead tree, planted along the Jordan River. This tree produced a nut very valuable in making medicine and valued at twice its weight in silver. During the Roman Conquest these trees were all destroyed and not one remains in all the land. The camphor tree was cultivated by Moses and we Found the leaves were used to secure a red stain used on finger nails and to dye hair. This custom was performed by men as well as women.

Gardens were of many types and uses, offering places of meditation and inspiration. Sometimes as we work in our gardens, we should pause and reflect on their history and draw comfort from the words of Dorothy F. Gurney, "One is nearer God's heart in a garden, than anywhere else on earth."

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess who had used a red and white Valentine theme.

Special note should be taken by members concerning the March meeting. Because of conflicting interest with the district meeting, the March meeting will be changed to March 20 at the home of Mrs. Helen Hermann.

Micro cooking tips

+Use only approved microwave cookware which is usually heat-resistant glass, ceramic (or combinations thereof), only certain plastics (which withstand high temperature) and paper plates, waxed paper or paper toweling. Metal is a no-no because it reflects microwaves rather than allowing food to absorb them.

+Quick cooking (as in microwave) does not brown food unless you use a special browning unit.

+Microwaves lose power as they penetrate food. Thus, stirring is required during the cooking process in certain recipes.

Art of mime

Marcel Marceau, the world's greatest mime artist, presents a funny and fascinating show at Detroit historic Music Hall Center Feb. 27 through March 4. The program for each of Marceau's eight performances is chosen from his list of stylized pantomimes as well as the adventures and misadventures of "Bip," the clown. Marceau's pursuit of the art of mime was inspired by such silent screen artists as Charlie Chaplin, Stan Laurel, and Oliver Hardy. Bip — with his white painted face, striped pull-over, tight trousers and his battered hat topped with a trembling flower — is the silent witness of the lives of all men, struggling against one handicap or another, with joys and sorrows as their daily companions. Performances begin at 8:30 p.m. in the evenings and at 2 p.m. Thursday, Saturday and Sunday. All tickets can be purchased from the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison Avenue, or by calling 963-7680 between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m.; Monday through Saturday.

Contemporary drama, 'Ladies', to open March 2 at Bonstelle

"Ladies in Waiting," a contemporary drama by professional actor Peter DeAnda, opens at Wayne State University's Bonstelle Theatre March 2 for a 2-weekend run.

Performances are scheduled for Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 p.m., with Sunday matinees at 2 p.m., closing March 11.

This play deals with the ups and downs in the lives of inmates of a women's prison when a naive college girl joins them as a cellmate. The results are sometimes frightening, sometimes humorous and tender.

The production is directed by Martin Molson of the Wayne State Theatre staff, with costumes by David C. Paulin, lighting by Marc C. Riske and settings by William McConnell Bozman, all students of theatre design.

The cast includes Althea Lockridge, Annette De Petris, Cheryl McClenic and Ann Sawyer, all of Detroit, and Shari Crane of Birmingham.

Tickets and information for "Ladies in Waiting" and other Wayne State University productions may be obtained from the Wayne State University Theatre box office in the Hilberry Theatre at Cass and Hancock, Detroit 48202, or by calling 577-2960.

The Detroit premiere of "The Sea" by contemporary English dramatist Edward Bond opens at the Hilberry Studio Theatre on March 1 for seven performances.

It runs through March 3, and the following week, March 7 through 10. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Bond is one of England's most controversial playwrights. English critic Ronald Bryden, writing in The New York Times, called Bond "the playwright generally regarded abroad as the finest now writing in Britain." Critical praise and support by such luminaries as Laurence Olivier, Kenneth Tynan and Martin Esslin have, on the other hand, been more than matched by critical lambast.

Only recently have his works been attracting wide attention in America, although Bond plays have received numerous productions in Europe.

His film scripts include Antonioni's "Blow-up," Tony Richardson's "Laughter in the Dark" and Nicholas Roeg's "Walkabout."

"The Sea," considered by some critics as Bond's most accessible work, is a comedy set in Edwardian England. A mad draper mistakes two men whose boat has capsized during a storm as invaders from outer space. From that incident all sorts of complications arise.

Leading the cast of "The Sea" are Richard

Buzinski of New Baltimore, Sandra Prappas of Southfield, Robert W. Stormont of Farmington, Phillip W. Moss of Flat Rock and Kathryn Paraventi of Rutland.

The play is directed by N. Joseph Calarco, with set by Kim Beringer, costumes by Annette DiFilippo and lighting by William Bingham.

'Deadly Game' set for MBT

"The Deadly Game" a thriller based on Frederick Durrenmat's provocative and suspenseful novel "Traps," will open for a 4-week run at the Meadow Brook Theatre at 8:30 p.m. March 1.

James Yaffe, the mystery writer, has written the play based on the Durrenmat novel. "The Deadly Game" tells the story of three retired men of law on a remote mountain in Switzerland who amuse themselves by going through the legal ceremony of prosecuting strangers who drop in. A travelling salesman is their guest on a snowy evening. Although their "deadly game" seems foolish to him, he agrees to it to humor his hosts.

After a little social and amiable conversation, the retired prosecutor discovers a plausible case. He accuses the salesman of having murdered his employer.

Charles Nolte will direct "The Deadly Game."

Tickets for "The Deadly Game," which will run through March 25, may be purchased by calling the Meadow Brook Theatre box office at 377-3300.

State Capitol

'Tuebor' plan today houses legislature

MICHIGAN'S STATE CAPITOL

The embryo that was to grow into the State of Michigan began as a Jesuit mission in 1668 at what is now Sault Ste. Marie.

Michigan Territory was created in 1805 with General William Hull as its first territorial governor. The town of Detroit, incorporated in 1802, was the new territory's seat of government. When Michigan was admitted to the Union in 1837, the territorial courthouse built in Detroit in 1828 became the first State Capitol.

It remained the capitol until 1847 when Acting Governor Greenley changed the site of the state's Capitol city by signing into law a short, declarative sentence which stated: "the seat of government shall be in the Township of Lansing, County of Ingham."

The first capitol built in Lansing was a simple 6-foot by 100-foot structure costing less than $23,000. A 16-foot, two-story frame addition was later constructed in 1865 and featured green shutters and a tin cupola on the roof. It was often referred to as "the barn" because it was so uncomfortable.

State legislators, recognizing the inadequacies of the buildings, passed a bill "to provide for the erection of a new state capitol and a building for the temporary use of the state offices."

An architect and plans for the new structure were solicited by a nationwide contest. Twenty-two sets of drawings were submitted from around the country. On Jan. 24, 1872, "Tuebor", the plan of Elijah E. Myers, an ex-carpenter from Illinois was selected. Myers' plan satisfied the penny-pinching building commissioners two main criteria; the construction costs, estimated at $1.2 million were low and the design was simple yet impressive.

The laying of the cornerstone took place on Oct. 2, 1873, with a gigantic "wingding" dedication. The stone contained forty-eight articles, among them: a parchment history of Michigan, a Lansing city directory, a Bible, a package containing items from the cornerstone of the territorial Capitol in Detroit, various coins of the year 1873, a pen used to sign the Michigan Constitution of 1835 and a penny postcard.

When the cornerstone was re-opened Oct. 2, 1978, the passage of 100 years had dealt a fatal blow to most of the original articles. A fault in the Seal of stone had allowed cold, heat and moisture to seep in over the years, and all paper books and documents were more or less pulverized. Only the gold, silver, nickel and copper coins survived. However, through the foresight of our ancestors, duplicates of all cornerstone items are preserved in the state archives.

The dedication of the Capitol took place on Jan. 1, 1879. One hundred years have passed since that monumental day and Elijah Myers' domed capitol still stands, proudly serving the people of Michigan. Although changes have been made on the interior to accommodate the growth of state government, the exterior of the Capitol has been altered only slightly during its century of life. It has become one of the state's more popular tourist attractions.

Perhaps one of the most outstanding features of the Capitol is the floor of the Rotunda comprised of English glass bricks held together by iron framework to form an intriguing pattern. Michigan's capitol, by the way, is the only one in the United States to claim such a unique floor.

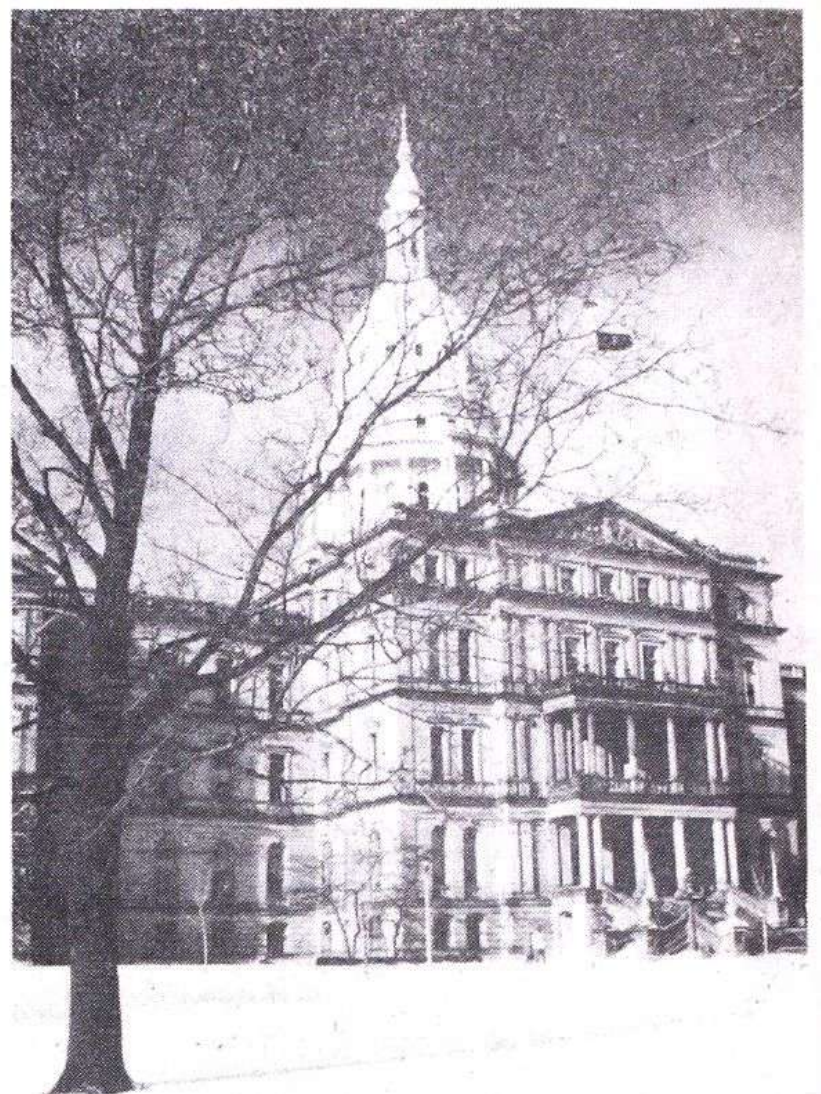

History buffs will find the capitol contains many reminders of Michigan's rich past. Authentic flags carried into battle by Michigan regiments are encased in glass around the Rotunda walls. Some have been refurbished, but many remain as they were when carried off the battle field years ago.

The hallway leading southward from the Rotunda is adorned with larger than life murals highlighting Michigan's historical and economical development. The ceilings, an eye-catching design of blue and gold, were painted with the Fresco technique which involved painting directly onto the plaster. The majestic hallway chandeliers, which contain the State Seal, were designed by Tiffany's of New York from pewter, iron and Michigan copper.

Portraits of former Michigan governors line the walls of the second floor balcony. Most notable include those of John Swainson and Michigan's popular governor George Romney. Swainson's portrait remains unfinished by his own request. The former governor left office at an early age and wanted his portrait left unfinished to signify that his career was not over. Romney's portrait is the only one done in the modern unadorned fashion and the only one ever done by a woman.

Daily tours are provided to the public free of charge. Each tour lasts approximately one hour and the guides are happy to answer any questions. Tours are scheduled every half hour between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Nathan Marshall arrives Feb. 14

Valentine's Day brought a special gift for Vickie and Danny Hayes of Charles Street in Ypsilanti...The arrival of their new son, Nathan Marshall.

The infant was born at 6:34 p.m. Feb. 14 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor and weighed 7 lbs., 12 ozs. at birth. He measured 20 1/4 inches. The infant is the new brother of Kristina and Tammy and Donald.

The happy grandparents are Irene Hayes of Ironton, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Green of Ecorse Road, Belleville. The great-grandparents are Troy and Eva Ford of Zephyrhills, Fla.

This week to honor engineers

This week, Feb. 18-24, has been designated National Engineers Week throughout the United States.

Our nation's engineers have set aside this week to reaffirm their commitment to this country and its people.

It is the dedicated efforts of engineers and the application of their talents, ingenuity and perseverance that is at the very heart of our nation's success.

In declaring this week in honor of the state's engineers, Gov. William Milliken has urged all citizens to give appropriate recognition to the skilled and dedicated men and women in our state who have made engineering a profession which plays an increasingly important role in bringing about a better Michigan.

Engineers have built the foundation for progress and development of America for more than 200 years. They have contributed greatly toward making America the leading technological nation in the world.

CITY OF ROMULUS NOTICE

LEGAL NOTICE TO FAMILIES WHO LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS OPERATED BY THE ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION OR LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS IN ANY OTHER CITY BETWEEN MARCH 16, 1971, - SEPTEMBER 26, 1975.

If you rented a house or apartment from the ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and/or;
2. a dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971, to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submittal of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request known to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 6, 1979.

Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and/or a dependent in the household was employed.

Publish every week until April 4.

2. In Memoriam

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY GRANDPA (MEL) CLAYTON MELDRUM
One year ago today, God took you away, and heartache is more than I can bear, knowing that tomorrow you won't be there. I'm trying to do the things you taught me to do. But somehow it isn't the same without you. Your loving Grandson,
JAMES VELVA HEINBERGER

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY HUSBAND, CLAYTON MELDRUM
Who left me Feb. 21, 1978. Midnight stars are shining on his grave. Beneath lies the one I love so dearly. But couldn't save. I think of him in silence and often repeat his name. But all I have to treasure is his memories and pictures in a frame. Your wife,
MARGARET

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MICHAEL K. FREY
February 19, 1966. There is a memory fond & true. There are heartaches still for you. Tears in our eyes, we can wipe away, but the aches in our hearts, will always stay. SADLY MISSED BUT NEVER FORGOTTEN.
MOM & DAD

Romantic is 'in' for today's bride

By KAY DeBORD

Brides planning spring weddings have no limit when it comes to choice of styles, accessories and materials for bridal ensembles.

Weddings, from the most formal to a civil ceremony, all have a place in the world of fashion when it comes to choosing a bridal gown or dress — or even a suit.

Most brides, if they have a choice in the matter, will opt for the "romantic" in bridal gowns and this is a perfect year for that feeling.

Many of the gowns are shown with a deep décolletage, the off-the-shoulder style accented by a deep flounce above a fitted waistline. The semi-full skirt, not worn with hoops, is softly draped and is complemented by a deep hemline flounce.

Lace, chiffons, organzas, some plain, some embroidered are used to create the "romantic" look in bridal attire, and accessories carry out the same theme — for many weddings, picture hats, beflowered and beveled, replace the traditional headpiece and bridal veil and in the spring, a wreath of flowers, real or artificial, secure a veil or lace scarf draped from the head to the shoulders is optional.

Another popular silhouette for the bride is the "Victorian" or covered look. High necklines, long sleeves, high waists and narrow skirts are carried out in polyester sheers, silk jerseys and crepe de chine for the bride who likes the "regal" look for her wedding. Many are accented with lace.

The glamor look of the '30s and '40s also is carried out in clingy fabrics, the styles accented by slit skirts or draped in a column effect. Also, capelets draping to the bend of the elbow give a different look to the bodice.

Veiled caps, Juliet or pilbox caps, add the finishing touch to the ensemble.

A GEM OF A GOWN is sure to make you feel like a priceless jewel on your special day. Special touches here include a bejeweled neckline and an extravagantly worked lace dress over embroidered train. The gown features a natural waist for a small-shaped look and is set off beautifully by a Juliet cap with walking veil applied to match. From Priscilla of Boston.

For happy couple...Gifts galore

By LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

"The honour of your presence" — that well-known line which is almost always part of a wedding invitation — has a double meaning as we well know. Presence and presents.

But — what to get for the happy couple?

Does one flow with the tide and go with today's "in" appliance for instance, or does one swim upstream a bit and opt for something "different"? Bridal season after bridal season (spring-summer, fall-winter) sees an influx of bright new gadgets and convenience tools for m'lady's kitchen.

The "trendies" have run the gamut from lazy Susans, electric roasters, broiler ovens and fondue pots to quickie coffee makers, mini-fryers, crock pots, and today's crepe pans.

If you want to readily learn what the young couple would like to surround themselves with in the future, the bridal registry at most large stores can be the answer... IF the couple is listed. What is preferred in china, silver, crystal, linens and other household necessities can all be found on one little sheet; plus one is able also to find the colors the couple plan for their new home or apartment and usually the period in which they plan to decorate.

Sounds great? And simple? Not so — the registry, once the bride's and her guests' best service, has regressed 'til it's almost a farce. Stores more often than not will tell you (AFTER you've decided on an item) that they are "Out of stock", "It has to be special ordered", "It's been discontinued" or "We have no idea when it will arrive and can't promise it before the wedding."

Once you've been through that bit you learn to scan the list, find your price range and ask, right now, if they have that particular piece of dinnerware, crystal or whatever. When you've done all the whittling down you're going to contend with

(and are completely frustrated) you can start on a whole new tack — the same method you'd have taken had the couple NOT been registered.

Stop and think what those future newlyweds enjoy as hobbies, past-times, entertainment, etc.

They just might be avid college or pro-football fans. In that case how about something for the stadium or for tailgating? — A large thermos, those keep-'em-hot-or-cold servers, cup and plate sets in their teams colors, a stadium blanket, folding table, binoculars.

Will their new home have a patio or deck? If so you might like to look for colorful deck chairs or a chaise lounge, hurricane lamps to guard chunky big candles, tablecloths in terry or vinyl, barbeque tools, a folding serving table, huge planters.

How will they entertain? Lavishly or casually? For the former a silver gallery tray, chafing dish, candlesticks or champagne bucket, elegant linens or table runners, a wine decanter or carafe, silver or crystal napkin rings, cutglass serving pieces. On the less grand scale one might consider print placemats and matching napkins, floating candle centerpieces, lucite-handled flatware, trivets, a grouping of multi-sized and multi-colored candles, a teapot with tiny cups, a wok, lotus bowls for an Oriental dinner, a lasagna pan or spaghetti bowl for an Italian mood.

Are they avid TV fans? Toss 'em a curve and find a huge toss pillow or two for the floor; a popcorn maker or, should they have a fireplace, an old-fashioned wire basket in which to pop the stuff. Tuck in a few bags of corn and an asbestos mitt, too. Also for that fireplace, send a real surprise — a cord of firewood. You might consider snack tables or stack tables, footstools, an afghan, a subscription to a TV guide or magazine, big monogrammed ashtrays and coasters that might Bridegroom's tux has a 'splash of color'

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Bridal Writer

Weddings in our Associated Newspapers circulation area this year will feature a rainbow of colors — especially for the bridegroom.

Of course, all eyes will be on the bride as usual but the man she's marrying will get his share of attention thanks to the splash of color among contemporary formal fashions.

According to local merchants, colors are "in" and growing in popularity for altar-bound men — with browns, beiges, greys and blues leading the way. These are some of the shades that bridegrooms will be wearing in addition to the traditional black and white.

"The Bentley cut and Seville are currently among the most popular styles," said one local businessman. "Men are going more for a basic satin piping trim instead of a full satin lapel. Latest styles look more like regular suits."

He added that the men's choice of color depends, of course, on that chosen by the bride.

A manager of another men's formal wear store in the area added that nine out of 10 bridegrooms are wearing ruffled shirts.

"Some are wearing basic light, pleated shirts," he pointed out. "But more and more are wearing colored shirts at weddings and approximately two out of three are donning white shirts with colored ruffle trim."

Adding grace notes to the groom's attire will be all those little accents that make a total look:

touches of velvet at the lapels and pockets, satin-framed lapels, matching vests, satin-striped trousers and color-coordinated ties — and patent shoes!

As might be expected, the formal shirt plays an important part in the groom's fashion picture. Crisp white shirts are ruffled or subdued, with pleated fronts, and are often embellished with tone-on-tone embroidery along the front and at the cuffs.

The traditional cutaway features new striping detail on the trousers, which is echoed in the groom's ascot. A lighter-toned vest complements his jacket for a very elegant look.

This year's weddings are designed to make the groom distinct from his attendants. He may opt for a white shirt while they wear shaded shirts, for instance, or he can choose to contrast their light-toned suits with his own darker tuxedo.

Either way, the bridegroom will be a real standout in 1979.

HAPPY'S THE BRIDE who receives non-stick pans such as these French imports! Nothing sticks to the super-slick surface of the saucepan, oval fry pan and round fry pan shown—handsome, work-saving additions for any bride's kitchen.

'Basics' fill the bill in stocking a kitchen

Whether you're getting married, or striking out on your own, it takes a little planning to make sure you'll have the utensils you'll need when it comes time to rustle up a meal for one, or for two.

Sure, it's easy to walk into a store and buy one of everything you see, if you're a gourmet cook, but if down-home cooking is your specialty then a few basics will be all you'll need.

In the way of ovenware basics should include muffin pans (who knows when you'll have a craving for cupcakes or blueberry muffins), cookie sheets 14 by 10 inches, a 9-inch pie plate, two round layer 9-inch cake pans (who ever heard of a one-layer cake), a 14- by 10-inch roasting pan and covered casseroles in 1-, 2½- and 3-quart sizes.

Top-of-the-stove cookware should include a 1-quart covered saucepan,

2-quart covered saucepan, 3-quart covered sauce pan, a 4- or 6-quart covered Dutch oven, a 1-pint small open sauce pan, a 6½- or 8-inch small frying pan and a 10- or 12-inch covered frying pan or chicken fryer.

Extras, for those who love to cook, would be 9-inch square cake pan, 8½- by 4½-inch loaf pans (most recipes are for two loaves of whatever) and a 13- by 9-inch round baking pan.

Miscellaneous items to round off the collection would be colanders, bun warmers (nothing worse than cold buns), broiler and baking racks, spatulas, measuring spoons, a whisk or two, kitchen shears (great for cutting pizza), a rubber jar opener, can opener and some large wooden spoons, not to mention a measuring cup or two and a strainer.

With all that in hand, you're ready to make your first meal.

A formal wedding requires planning

A formal wedding takes a good deal of planning, and the bride-to-be should allow at least six months to take care of all the details with ease and comfort.

SIX MONTHS before, the bride-elect should sit down with her parents and decide on the wedding budget and on what sort of wedding you want.

Once that's out of the way, choose the places where the wedding and reception will be held, find out how many guests can be accommodated at each place and make reservations.

Plan the reception and begin considering the menu. Choose wedding colors and go shopping for your wedding gown and accessories.

With your fiancée, go to see the person who will be officiating at the ceremony.

Select your attendants.

Plan for your honeymoon—consult a travel agent and send for a variety of brochures.

THREE MONTHS before your wedding your guest list should be complete.

You should, at this point, begin shopping for your trousseau, select and order attendants' dresses, select portrait photographer and order invitations and announcements at least a month before you want to begin addressing them, to allow sufficient time for engraving.

Make honeymoon reservations.

Plan details of ceremony and reception with caterer, florist, etc.

ONE MONTH in advance mail invitations; order flowers; choose gifts for groom and attendants; order groom's ring; have final fitting for wedding gown and headpiece; have portrait taken; arrange for newspaper announcement.

TWO WEEKS before go for marriage license with your fiancée; send announcements to newspaper; complete honeymoon arrangements.

ONE WEEK before take care of last minute details.

Estimate number of reception guests and send tabulation to caterer.

Arrange rehearsal date and notify the members of the bridal party of the time and place.

Flowers have own language

Flowers have a language all their own, to express feelings when words are just not enough.

What could be more appropriate than to choose those flowers for your bridal bouquet which say exactly what you want them to, those which contain the special messages, prompted by your deepest feelings and which express your hopes and aspirations for the future?

Here's what flowers can do for those around you:

Bluebell—Constancy
Camellia Japonica, white—Perfect loveliness

China Rose—Beauty always new

Daisy—Innocence

Forget Me Not—True love

Jonquil—I desire a return of affection

Lemon Blossom—Fidelity in love

Lilac, white—Youthful innocence

Orange Blossom—Your prity equals your loveliness

Peach Blossom—I am your captive

Rose, bridal—Happy Love

Rose, White—I am worthy of you

Sweet Pea—Departure

Violet, blue—Faithfulness

There are four favorite styles of bridal bouquets—the cascade, prayer book or muff, colonial and bridal cascade.

The cascade bouquet features roses and delphiniums, while the prayer book or muff is with orchids and lillies of the valley. The colonial bouquet includes sweet peas, roses and lilies of the valley, with the bridal cascade made up of a flow of gardenias, orchids and lilies of the valley.

Of the best kind

For bride-to-be there're showers

Regardless of the weather, wherever there's a bride-to-be, there are showers. But they're the best kind...gift showers.

If you're planning a shower for a happy young lady, here are some ideas for making it interesting and enjoyable for those attending and for the guest of honor.

A kitchen shower is always fun, and so practical. Find out before hand what colors the bride plans to use in her kitchen and mention it in your invitation, as well as any preference as to pans, etc.

Create a centerpiece of wooden spoons, bread sticks, ladles and napkins and present the bride-to-be with it at the end of her shower.

If the future bride already has had a kitchen shower, why not try something different, like a bath shower. Today's baths are so imaginative and sumptuous, you and your guests will have no difficulty at all in coming up with great gift ideas.

Aside from towels, there are many accessories designed to make bathrooms luxurious. Scales, soap dishes and hampers, are not the only choices. Plants, prints, etagères and ornamental towel rings are other possibilities, in addition to such items as shower massage attachments and electric toothbrushes.

Or, if the lady of honor is "into" plants, why not have a green thumb shower. This would be particularly appropriate if she'll be moving into a house from an apartment after the wedding.

Aside from plants, you can gift her with flower pots galore (or baskets for housing her plants), plus all the tools of the gardening trade. Put the punch bowl in a basket and the serving glasses in small plastic flower pots (add straws to sip with) for a green-thumb atmosphere.

Other shower ideas include linen showers, lingerie showers, spice showers, even miscellaneous showers, but if you really want to surprise the bride-to-be why not a pantry shower?

It's not only fun to give, the gifts are extremely useful and practical. The presents can be as varied as your pantry shelf—from staples like flour, sugar and spices to canned and convenience foods.

Whatever you may decide to shower the bride-to-be, with a traditional or a "different" kind of shower, you can be sure she'll be delighted with your thoughtfulness.

Let us know

You've decided it's time to tell the whole world the good news, but how? The diamond ring tells part of the story, but what about the details?

For brides-to-be and new Mrs. who want to share that "special day" with others, Associated Newspapers offers bridal questionnaires, as well as engagement forms for announcing the "start of it all".

When filling out the forms, we ask that names—first and last—be printed to avoid misspellings and that the proper title's of places of employment schools and club and social affiliations be followed by the city and state.

Telephone numbers should be included with the information in case a question does arise.

Pictures will be printed with engagement announcements and wedding stories. For the former, we prefer wallet size photos, however, larger studio photos are acceptable.

Wedding photos can be of either the bride alone, or the bridal couple, and must be of professional quality.

Candid snapshots for weddings and engagements are not acceptable because they do not contain the sharpness and contrast needed for reproduction.

Engagement and bridal forms can be picked up at our Belleville office, located at 116 Fourth St., Belleville, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m., or at our Wayne office, located at 35540 Michigan Avenue, between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Honeymoons:

Duration reflects newlyweds' lifestyle

While the bride and her parents are busy planning and paying for "the big day," it's up to the groom to look after another important part of the wedding rite — the honeymoon.

But just as traditional wedding customs have been modernized and changed, in many ways the honeymoon trip has changed, too.

It's not uncommon in today's society for that idyllic two or three week, or month-long trip, to become a short weekend trip, with the newlyweds heading back to work as usual.

In these days, usually both husband and wife are employed, and it may not be easy timing vacations together. Since most newlyweds are young, many are new to their jobs and don't have vacation time accrued.

And often, the couple decides to save the money of a big honeymoon trip, to buy a home or other essentials, or for a later trip.

It has become more and more popular to plan brief honeymoon trips in locations suited for a whirlwind weekend. One place considered tops in romance and atmosphere, not far away, is Toronto. A weekend train trip to Toronto has all the criteria of a perfect, but short, honeymoon trip.

Even closer to home, couples sometimes spend a few days at a nearby resort hotel, such as Renaissance Center, Hyatt Regency in Dearborn, or Weber's Inn in Ann Arbor. They "get away from it all" for a few days of extravagance, but are ready to report to work Monday morning.

Of course, the grand trip still is very much of part of the honeymoon tradition for many couples. They might pick spots like Las Vegas, Hawaii, or California. Airlines are reducing fares, if reservations are made far enough in advance, and with certain restrictions.

Today's young married often take to the backwoods for a honeymoon trip. They will pack up the van with tent, stove and canned goods, and pick a state park with a campfire and beach for a week of getting to know each other.

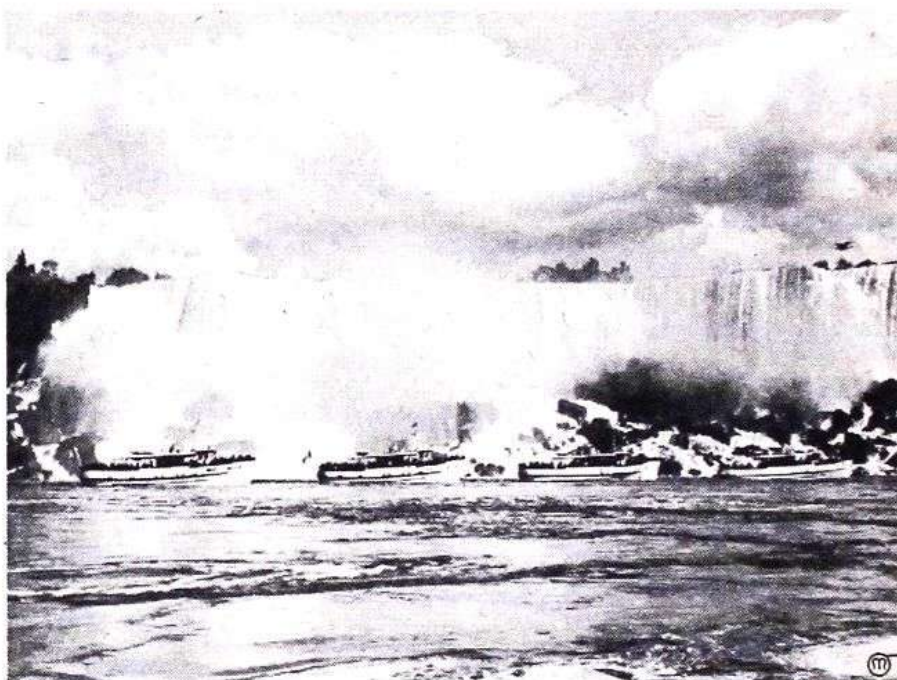

Like most wedding formalities, the honeymoon trip is not as structured as in the past. Although a bride may buy some new clothes, she would hardly call it a "trousseau." And the age of liberation has pretty well ridded couples of the notion that the groom should do the planning and surprise his bride with the trip.

If an extended trip, or even a brief jaunt, is in your plans, it's a good idea to consult a travel agent. You might be surprised to find things more affordable than you thought. And he might suggest ideas, such as a cruise or tour plan, that you never even thought of.

Remember, a travel agent does not charge you for arranging the trip. He or she works on commission from the companies for which he arranges bookings.

One final note. If you do take off for a honeymoon trip, be it two days or a month, don't leave wedding money and gifts at home. It's a pretty good bet for would-be burglars that a newly married couple just might be going somewhere, leaving the loot at home.

A VEIL OF MIST rises up from majestic Niagara Falls, still one of the most romantic spots in the world. The ideal way to experience the Falls in all their splendor and glory is from the deck of the Maid of the Mist, which cruises past the American Falls to the very base of Horseshoe Falls for an unparalleled view of the tumultuous, rushing waters. The roar of the cataracts in their headlong course and the feeling of spray all around are sensations never to be forgotten. Photo courtesy: Maid of the Mist Corp.

What is what?

Those who are looking eagerly ahead to the years to come always are curious to know which anniversary is symbolized by what.

Those, including the husbands and wives, who are faced with the question of what to give on an anniversary frequently find a list of traditional anniversary presents an excellent way of deciding on a gift that is both practical and beautiful.

In any case, to satisfy the curious and to assist the befuddled, the following outlines the major anniversaries and the presents that symbolize them:

- First—Paper
- Second—Cotton
- Third—Leather
- Fourth—Linen
- Fifth—Wood
- Sixth—Iron
- Seventh—Copper
- Eighth—Bronze
- Ninth—China or pottery
- Tenth—Tin or aluminum
- Eleventh—Steel
- Twelfth—Silk
- Thirteenth—Lace
- Fourteenth—Ivory
- Fifteenth—Crystal
- Twentieth—China
- Twenty-fifth—Silver
- Fiftieth—Gold

HER HAND FOR DIAMONDS—If you're planning to get engaged in the near future, you should consider the shape of the diamond, and the shape of her hand. They should complement one another. The five most popular diamond shapes are: the oval cut (shown on hand) which seems larger than others of the same weight; the emerald cut which can be rectangular or square in outline; the round or brilliant cut; the marquise is long with points at both ends; or the pear shape which is wide at one end and tapers to a point at the other.

Sewing your own gown: It's harder than it looks

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

So you can sew and want to show off your creativity on your wedding day. It's a terrific idea, if you take a few minutes to plan and consider the task before you.

Sewing a dress may be a simple task to the experienced seamstress, but a bridal gown may pose problems never before encountered.

Modern technology has given today's bride a wide selection of materials that can be used in wedding gowns beyond the traditional bridal satin. Synthetics, knits, cotton polyesters and linens are showing up more and more at weddings... and not just among the guests.

But the industrious bride-to-be should consider not only the type of material she wants, but also the style and fit of the pattern. A wise seamstress, who had no formal training, once told me that classes aren't necessary to learn to sew, just take your time and do it right. She should know, she's made two wedding gowns and several bridesmaids' gowns in the past seven years.

The first step in making a wedding gown is deciding on a pattern. Remember in making such a selection put becomingness before fashion. Sketches in a pattern book may not look the same after many hours of tender loving labor.

In selecting the pattern decide if it emphasizes your good points, but make sure that emphasis doesn't call attention to a bad point.

Also decide what your figure style is and consider the purpose of the gown. When you're ready to select the fabric, decide if it is suitable for the style you chose and the purpose.

And if you're between pattern sizes, buy the smaller one and enlarge wherever necessary.

Because some materials, such as satin and velvet show stitching marks, it's wise to cut out the bodice of your gown in an old sheet or a piece of muslin to figure out what alterations, if any, are necessary. It may be an inconvenience at the time and slow down the sewing process, but it could guarantee a better fitting, better looking bridal ensemble.

In considering the different materials, weigh the pros and cons. While cottons are versatile, durable, comfortable and easy to care for, they wrinkle, tend to shrink and soil easily. Linens are cooler, more lustrous, dry faster and are absorbant, but are more expensive, likely to wrinkle and difficult to launder.

When you're ready to cut out the pattern, observe which pieces must be placed on a fold and which pieces must be cut singly, such as for the right and left side of the body.

If the fabric has a nap, pile or 1-way design or is of satin, the top of the pattern pieces must all face the top of the fabric. Remember to cut carefully and accurately and be sure that all the pattern pieces are placed on the grainline.

If you're using material made from thermoplastics, such as nylon, dacron, orlon or combinations of those and natural fibers, cut with

Diamond: A symbol of love, commitment

Diamonds really are a girl's best friend, especially when it signifies that very special occasion... an engagement.

And to young couples the diamond is the universal symbol of love and commitment.

No two diamonds are the same. Each has a personality of its own.

The important and major consideration in choosing a diamond ring is, of course, the cost. Today, a good-quality half-carat engagement ring can cost from $600 and up.

Factors involved in choosing a diamond are the size, the quality and the amount of gold or platinum in the design. Like most everything else now days gold is on the rise, and so if the band is preferred wide, the cost will be higher. Some diamond experts are recommending that young couples opt for the narrow band.

The shape of the diamond also is a factor in its cost. The round or brilliant cut generally is less expensive than the so-called "fancy" shapes — the Marquise, the pear and the emerald cut.

Like anything else, the shape of a diamond is a matter of individual taste — one is not preferable to another, and they are all works of art.

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder, as they say, and whatever the size the shape of a diamond, one this stands uncontested — a diamond is truly forever.

It's all tradition!

Through the ages bridal gowns have come in all shapes and sizes, not to mention lengths and materials. But whatever style gown the bride will be wearing this winter, rest assured it's "ancestor" was a "plain Jane".

Wedding white hasn't always been the color for brides. In fact in Saxon days, white gowns were worn by poor brides. Because dyes were expensive, the more colorful gowns were worn by wealthy brides.

And the colors chosen had a meaning. While yellow was shunned because it meant jealousy, blue stood for fidelity and green for youth. During the American Revolution more than one patriotic bride wore red.

It wasn't until the Victorian period that white was revived for weddings. But, alas, most gowns were of heavy brocades and satins and dark in color.

By the early 1900s lighter fabrics—cotton and lace—were having their influence on gowns that featured high necklines and slimming dropped waistlines.

In the Flapper Era of the '20s, brides were wearing gowns of silk crepe, with V-neck styling, gathered straight skirts and cumberbunds.

Satin came on the scene in the Depression years and has remained a bridal favorite ever since.

The '50s saw the introduction of ballerina style gown, while the '60s saw the advent of the still popular princess-style gown.

The bride's veil, which stands for modesty, chastity, obedience and submission. In some countries the belief was that evil spirits were attracted to the woman, and a veil was worn to keep them away.

Like gowns, veils have changed. Hundreds of years ago, veils were many colored and woven with gold and silver threads. Now brides are completing their bridal ensembles with chapel trains, illusion veils, mantillas, picture hats and even fresh flowers.

Just as gowns have change through the years so have the other aspects of weddings.

The tradition of showering the newlyweds with rice has given way to other more environmental practical tidbits like grass seed or bird seed. The tradition of throwing rice has Chinese origins and wishes that the couple may always have a full pantry.

Bridal bouquets date back to Roman times when the bride carried bunches of herbs under her veil. Orange blossoms were the choice of the empire's Syrian nomads and symbolized fertility.

English brides have long favored roses as their bridal flowers, and logically, June, the month of roses, is a popular month for weddings.

Popular flowers for today's bridal bouquets are roses, carnations, daisies and baby's breath, as well as sweetheart roses.

Early beginnings also are part of the custom of engagement and wedding rings. The former had its origins in the giving of gifts, such as cattle, food or jewels, by the bridegroom to prove his worthiness and good intentions. Later the gift became a personal ornament for the bride-to-be. Hence the practice of giving an engagement ring.

The wedding band goes back to caveman days, when the bride wore a bracelet of woven rushes, later replaced by a band of iron to show the lasting quality of the marriage.

In Roman times the custom was to place the ring on the third finger of the left hand, the finger believed to be a direct line to the heart.

So be your wedding small and simple, before a minister or judge, in a garden or church, remember it's probably steeped in tradition.

sharp scissors and use fine, sharp pins. Stitch slow and don't pull the fabric. Generally, the tension for such materials should be looser than for natural fibers.

If a satin is your choice for your wedding gown, you'll have to decide what effect you want. Hold up two ends of the fabric and look down it. One end will appear darker than the other. Decide whether you want a lighter or darker effect.

Since pins will mark such fabric, place all pins within the seam allowances wherever possible. Pin holes will show less if placed along the lengthwise grain of the fabric.

Satin tends to "squirm" around under at pattern when cutting, so place a row of pins on either side of the cutting line. Pin the fabric to tissue paper, if necessary, before cutting.

Seams tend to pucker with satin, and although they will appear to press flat, they will pucker when the fabric cools. Loosen the thread and presser foot tension and experiment on sample seams to avoid such problems.

In pressing satin use a dry iron on the wrong side of the fabric. For touch ups on the right side, use a piece of garment fabric between the iron and the garment to prevent iron marks.

Knitted fabrics are not difficult to sew, if you follow a few basic rules.

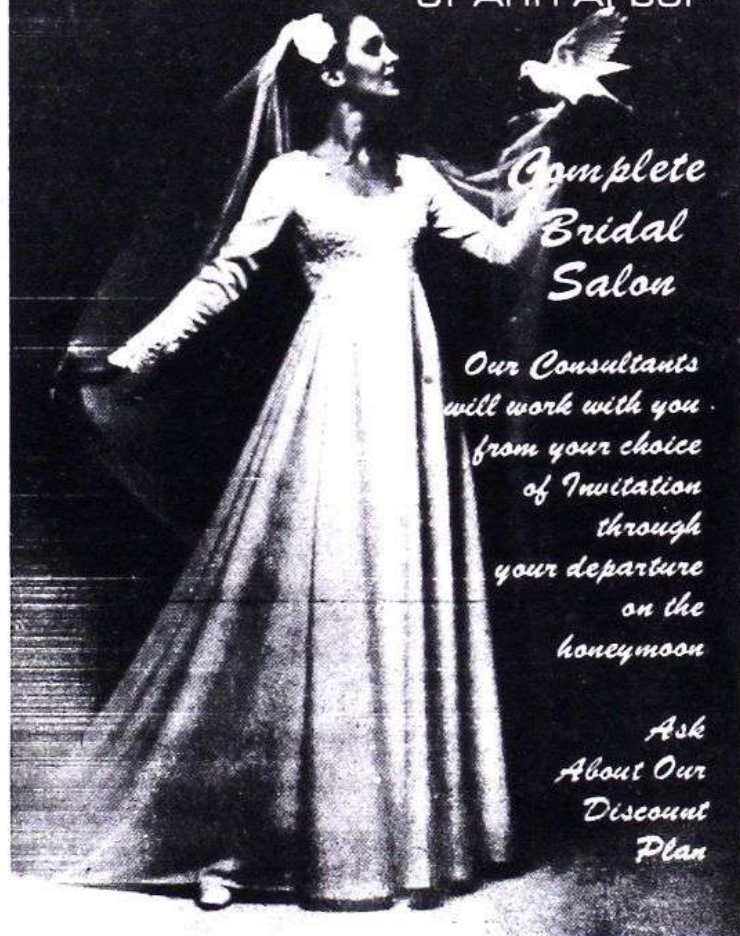

Choose the correct weight for your pattern. Is it light enough to avoid bulk and sufficiently firm for good draping? Heavier knits will be supple and firm and hold their shape. Also consider using linings and interfacings.

Cut knits on the grain of the fabric; such fabrics are heat-set and cannot be straightened, if they are set off grain. Pin pattern pieces on the grain and use fine, sharp pins. Hold the fabric flat when pinning and cutting to avoid stretching. And don't let excess fabric hang over the edge of the table.

In sewing knits, use a very small zig-zag stitch. The seams will give with the fabric and the stitches will not snap.

Around the world

Bride's attire has ethnic flavor

The "something new is something old in this year's wedding planning. Old-fashioned romance is the key to the 1978 bridal fashions and festivities, from flower-brimmed hats to petal-strewn aisles, layers of lace and shimmering satin to elegant morning coats and tuxedos of Byronesque grace and style.

That's what to expect here in the United States. But what about half way around the world? Have you ever wondered what a wedding ceremony is like in Japan?

In contrast to the wedding ceremony as it is known here, with its manifest ebullience and gaiety, solemnity and quietude set the tone of the traditional Japanese wedding. And rightly so, in particular for the bride whose demeanor throughout the ceremony is one of a downward gaze showing little emotion.

The traditional bridal attire is very beautiful and extravagant, representing upwards of thousands of dollars in cost. Traditionally, the bride is heavily powdered so that she has a white almost mask-like appearance.

In olden days, a young woman wore her hair long and uncurled, and it was done up in the traditional elaborate high hair-do. Nowadays a wig takes care of that tedious chore.

One of the concession that has not been made is the wearing of the white silk cloth around the hair-do, symbolizing the young woman's total devotion to her husband. The bridal costume entails several layers of undergarments, and the gown itself often is very exquisite silk brocade, embroidered with silver and gold threads. It also is on many beautiful colors.

Around the waist is the broad sash—obi—again of very heavy brocade often woven with much silver and gold threading. This is tied back very elaborately and high in the back.

Least known among the peoples of the world are the inhabitants of Northern Finland at the Arctic Circle. It is believed that the Finnish Lapps roamed as nomads across Russia and Finland as far back as the last Ice Age, 10 millenniums ago.

The traditional Lapp bridal attire is always dark blue, with many shawls tied over the bride's shoulders. Usually, the top one is white, taking the place of the veil.

Women guests at the ceremony wear white shawls, also, as is customary on all solemn occasions. The number of shawls worn by the bride is kind of a status symbol.

Lapp custom gives the bride a chance to change her mind about her intended husband, right up to the last minute, practically to the "I do".

One ancient Lapp custom that surely would have little or no appeal even to adventurous North Americans is one still followed by newlyweds at the Arctic Circle. The bridal couple is required to spend their wedding night outside their hut. This isn't difficult to take in the summer, when the weather is balmy, clear and delightful. But, in the winter, this means the nuptial night is spent in the bare snow.

Keep second marriage rite simple Statistics now show that one in every four marriages will end in divorce. And while etiquette spell out the do's and don'ts of first weddings, many questions arise over the second nuptial ceremony.

What is proper for the first marriage in many instances is a taboo for the second time around.

The term second marriage is determined by the bride's marital status. If the bride is single, but her groom divorced—no matter how many times—then she is entitled to all of the splendor of a first wedding.

In the case of an annulment, the person involved legally is considered as having never been married. However, in the case of the bride, it would be foolhardy to expect the same wedding extravaganza the second time around.

An engagement announcement for the couple should be informal. In the case of the bride she may chose to call her friends and relatives to let them know personally of her intentions to remarry.

Showers are not customary, if the bride is widowed or divorcee. Their purpose is to help the newlywed furnish her household, and it can be presumed that the previously married's household is in order.

Invitations to the wedding can cause problems. For the young divorcee, her parents may wish to issue the invitations in their name, stating their daughter's Christian name, their last name and the name of her former husband.

For a more mature divorcee indivations should use "Mrs.," her given name and the last names of her parents and former husband.

For the young widow, the style is that of the young divorcee, while for the mature women it should be her full married name.

Probably, the most confusing of second marriages is the type of ceremony—formal or informal.

Formal vows should be considered a very definite no-no. Since most clergymen still are reluctant about marrying divorced couples, the bride SHOULD visit the minister before planning her second marriage service.

There is a chance the minister may not perform the ceremony at the church, just as there is the possibility he will perform it elsewhere.

A rule of thumb for the nuptial service is to keep it simple and small.

Much of the trappings of the first wedding—processional, and recessional—are not needed, as are floral decorations and music.

But remember the minister has the final say so.

In the way of bridal attire, wedding veils, elegant bouquets and cathedral trains are out of place, although a white outfit is acceptable.

Receptions for the previously marrieds should be considered strictly as social affairs, so their size depends of the whims of the newlyweds. However, the receiving line should not include parents, children or attendants and should be informal in nature.

All things considered, in planning a second marriage the key words are simple and informal.

Are you fit to be tied?

When you tie the nuptial knot, make sure your tuxedo fits. Make sure by ordering your suit from a shop that keeps its main inventory in house. Make sure by ordering your suit from Brothers Formal Wear where tuxedos are measured and prepared at the same convenient location. Remember, even if out of town guests send in wrong measurements, the situation can be remedied quickly since we carry our large stock of tuxedos right at the store. That's right. At Brothers Formal Wear you can be confident that you and the other men in the wedding party will be dressed for the occasion in comfort and style — in tuxedos that really fit.

For the couple ...Gifts galore

Is he or she a real neat-o? Then closet and drawer organizers would please him or her no end. And they come in such pretty prints these color-conscious days. Check out those clothing bags, shoe bags or racks (for the door or floor), holders for handbags, lingerie, hosiery and handkerchief cases, drawer dividers — what a choice!

Are they sports oriented? Be it for the racquetball court, golf course, bowling alley, or for snowmobiling, cross country or downhill skiing, you're sure to find plenty to embellish their sparetime activities.

Will they be living in a place surrounded by lawn and possibly putting in vegetable and flower gardens? A wheelbarrow would be a super helpmate for the man of the house. He'd even be pleased (and so would she) with electric edgers, trimmers or pruning shears. Yards and yards of garden hose complete with a portable reel, rakes, hoes, garden tools, garden baskets — just let your imagination go to work for you.

And, dispensing with the various categories, how about the many necessities we gift-givers just never think about. For instance — a really good pair of scissors or set of fine kitchen knives. . . one of those gorgeous (but practical) bakelite or vinyl trays which come in all shapes, sizes, colors and patterns . . . a cute squat pitcher or tall regal pitcher for lemonade or martinis . . . smoke alarms . . . bookends . . . a set of photo albums . . . a step stool . . . and vases. Does anyone ever give a vase anymore?

With all those knot-tying ceremonies ready to take place come the warmer weather, you just might have found the answer to "what to buy" in our suggestions. But only you know your "subjects" and with just a little thought and ingenuity, you're sure to find that super gift with which the newlyweds will always remember you.

Another old-new look is the lace camisole bodice covered by a sheer blouson that accents the waistline of a slim skirt. Organza or chiffon are the most popular fabrics to create the effect.

Possibly the most popular design for the bride follows the traditional line of a fitted bodice and A-line skirt styled in lace and organza, the lace reembroidered in seed pearls. The bodice favored by many brides has the shallow "V" with scallops of lace as outline. The same effect can be used to complement the cap sleeves that are appropriate for a spring or summer wedding.

For the practical bride, who doesn't choose to put her bridal gown away for posterity, there's the simplicity of a basic sheath covered by a long or short-sleeved jacket. After the wedding, the jacket can be put aside and the spaghetti-strapped sheath doubles as a gown to be worn for formal occasions with colored accessories.

The bride who feels she doesn't look her best in white can make her gown color selection from a soft ivory, the palest blush pink or a white with a slight tinge of blue that gives a frost effect.

The style of the gown is only limited by the bride's own height, weight and figure shortcomings. The bride with a perfect figure is a rarity, and bridal consultants have the expertise in choosing the right gown for the occasion.

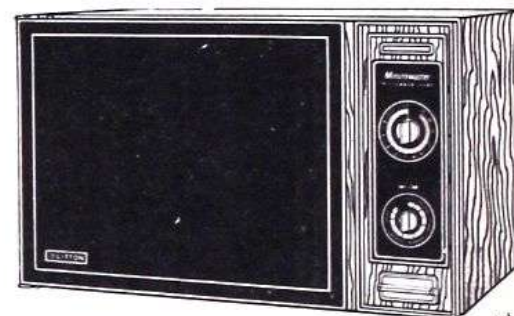

And in selecting the right gown to meet her needs, the bride has the comfort of knowing that EVERY bride is beautiful on HER day.
